DAILY NEARER.

Nearer home, nearer home... Nearer home, nearer home... Nearer home, nearer home...

EFFECT OF A FALSEHOOD.

"Are you returning immediately to Worcester?" said Lady Leslie... "I am; can I do anything for you here?"

On his road, Freeland met some of his brother officers, who were going to pass the day and night at Great Malvern... At sight of her, Freeland recollected with shame and confusion, that he had not fulfilled the charge committed to him...

"It would have been better to have done so, certainly!" replied Freeland, deeply blushing... "Yes; for the poor woman to whom I lent it, is not only herself in a delicate state of health, but she has a sick husband, unable to be moved; and as, but owing to no fault of his, he is on the point of bankruptcy, his cruel landlord has declared that, if they do not pay their rent by to-morrow, he will turn them out into the street, and seize the very bed they lie on! However, as you put the letter into the post yesterday, they must get the fifty-pound note to-day, else they could not; for there is no delivery of letters in London on Sunday, you know."

"My good friends," said he, "I cannot recall the mortification and disgrace which you have endured through my fault; but I trust that you will have gained in the end, by leaving a cruel landlord, who had no pity for your unmerited poverty... "My good friends," said he, "I cannot recall the mortification and disgrace which you have endured through my fault; but I trust that you will have gained in the end, by leaving a cruel landlord, who had no pity for your unmerited poverty... "My good friends," said he, "I cannot recall the mortification and disgrace which you have endured through my fault; but I trust that you will have gained in the end, by leaving a cruel landlord, who had no pity for your unmerited poverty..."

hour or two. The valets-de-chambre sometimes interrupt them; but Antonelli is very kind with them... "At two o'clock the pontifical dinner comes off. The Pope always dines alone. From three till four he sleeps. Everybody in Rome sleeps from three till four... "At five o'clock he rises out, always with great solemnity, accompanied by the noble guard on horseback, by valets and signifiers, and from three bare fingers his benedictions fall in great abundance... "The Pope does neither more nor less than other people. At five o'clock he rises out, always with great solemnity, accompanied by the noble guard on horseback, by valets and signifiers, and from three bare fingers his benedictions fall in great abundance..."

crime against Christ is any wrong done to those in whom he dwells, and whom he makes his representatives... "The poet was right. Christ's own words warranted his righteous outburst of indignation. Jesus and his members are one. A cup of cold water given to them in his name falls to them as an insult to the Lord of glory... "In the light of this truth we are contemplating, the work of every pastor, every Sunday-school teacher, and every philanthropist, catches a new beauty and luster... "Such is the successor of St. Peter. E. E. HALL. FLORENCE, ITALY."

WHAT CAN A CHILD DO? Suppose the little cowslip should hang its golden cup... THE HISTORY OF CORA'S FAITH. Last New Year's morning, Cora Louisa Bigelow rang out upon the quiet air of the room... WAITING FOR FRUIT. It was James' birthday. He was twelve years old. His sister had made him a pretty purse, and his mother had given him a four-bladed knife, with a small silver plate on the handle, and his initials marked on it...

and was standing with both hands on the spade, and James coming down in ten years there would be a young apple-tree there, and his father would be an old man, and his mother would be the father, and his father would be the grandfather... "I know of One," returned his father, "who has watched a tender plant just so long, and yet seen no sign of any fruit? ... "I should cut it down," said James... "He may wait," continued his father, "many years more, still bearing twenty or even thirty, still bearing the unfruitful tree, sending forth laborers to do all they can, and then at last it may come to be a very good tree..."

STORIES ABOUT THE INDIANS. "The angel of the Lord came upon them, and that fear Him, and delivereth them." My Dear Children.--The thrilling incident I am about to relate, occurred at our Missionary Station among the Dacotahs, during the recent massacre of the white settlers. Our missionaries, the Rev. Mr. Hinman and Miss West, were at the Mission House, when, suddenly, the fierce war cry of the Indians was heard, and the awful work of death commenced around them. During the alarm and confusion, these missionaries became separated from each other. Mr. Hinman made his way in safety to the river, although before he reached it, he saw four persons shot down almost at his very side. One was killed immediately in front of him. But the savages, whom Mr. Hinman could not recognize through their war paint, seemed to know him, and to respect his character of "the good sacred white man." And although Mr. Hinman, traveled through scenes of murder and violence for fifteen miles before he reached Fort Rideney, he was not molested. But it is more particularly in reference to Miss West that I now write to you. It seems that at the beginning of the massacre, she went to the house of a neighbor and friend to try to save her and her little child from the murderers. As in company with these she was seeking to escape, a party of Indians, in their paint and feathers, rushed upon them from a house in which they were hidden, and she and her little child were lowered through the window of the tomahawk, and one of the Indians held hands with her, exclaiming, "Sacred woman!" But she said, "her pointer to her, and the little child, and pointing with bloody fingers across their own throats; they, in this way, indicated their intention to kill her and her child." Miss West, threw herself between them, and told the Indians that she had promised to protect her husband and the little child, and that she would do so. At her entreaty their lives were spared. The Indians then asked Miss West where she was going. She pointed to a house at a little distance. They told her not to go that way, because they were on their way to that very house to kill the people that lived in it. They told her, moreover, what road she should take to avoid danger, and so they left her. She heard their wild whoop as they approached the deserted house to prosecute in their work of blood. After many dangers and hardships, Miss West arrived safely at the Fort, along with the friend and her little child whom she had been the means of rescuing. Dear children, is it not very true, that the angel of the Lord came upon them, and that fear Him, and delivereth them? So God will protect and defend you, and keep you from all evil, if you try to love Him and the dear Savior who died for you. Your affectionate friend, Geo. W. Duggan, Sr. PAUL, Jan. 27, 1863.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR. The President of the United States having issued a proclamation, which is hereto annexed, designating Thursday, April 30th, 1863, as a day of national humiliation, fasting and prayer...

therefore, who believe in the power of prayer, not fail to join in asking that our nation may be brought to thorough repentance, and may bring forth fruits meet for repentance.

The following very appropriate Hymn for the National Fast was written by Rev. John Pierpont, and published in a recent number of the Washington Chronicle.

OUR COUNTRY. In future years, the thoughtful student of history will pause in wonder and admiration over the record of the crisis through which our country is passing.

ABOUT GOING TO MEETING. SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY TO READ. We ought to get to meeting on the Sabbath earlier. A loitering habit is too common among all people, ourselves not excepted.

REVIVAL IN WALWORTH, WIS. The following letter was probably intended to communicate information to us personally; but the matter is of such general interest that we take the liberty of printing it.

Power; for however limited may be the number of slaves emancipated, the power which holds them in bondage is broken, all its prestige is gone.

ABANDONED PLANTATIONS. The following is a synopsis of the plan of employing negroes on abandoned plantations on the Mississippi, as announced by Adjutant-General Thomas:

EXTRAORDINARY IMPOSTOR. A story goes the rounds of the foreign papers of what is properly styled "An Extraordinary Impostor."

WHAT IS WANTED. In its comments upon our failure at Charleston, the Boston Traveler remarks: "What we need now, it is clear from the experience already obtained in this war, is first, steam rams with powerful engines unincumbered with armorment, but fitted with sharp iron prow, which will cut like a cold chisel...

WORKMANSHIP OF IVORY. None of our manufacturers have yet reached the consummate skill of the Chinese artists in the workmanship of ivory, chiefly remarkable in their concentric balls, chess pieces, and models...

WHENEVER THE TOTAL INCOME of any person exceeds $10,000, and deductions are made therefrom upon the ground that a portion of such income has been subject to a three per cent. duty upon dividends or interest paid by companies, corporations or associations...

COMMON SENSE" EXTRAORDINARY.—A captain in an Iowa regiment having been informed that his company had subscribed a handsome sum for the purpose of presenting him with an elegant sash and sword, called his men together, and delivered himself of the following "model" speech. It is full of straightforward common sense and pure disinterested patriotism combined:

Boys, if you have any money to spare, send it home to your families, if they need it; if not, keep it until you need it yourselves. I will buy my own sword. Should you do it, and should it come to disgrace in my hands, you could not regret the gift; or should I accept it from you, and some day find it my imperative duty to kick some one of the donors out of this company, it might be unpleasant to think that I was under obligations to that person as a contributor to the elegant sword fund. For these reasons I must firmly and kindly decline the favor which your loyal hearts prompt you to bestow.
