WAR NEWS OF THE WEEK.

VIRGINIA.

Considerable interest was felt throughout last week in the retrograde movement of the army of the Potomac, which was falling back from the Rapidan and the Rappahannock, probably because just now it is deemed more important to make Mosseran's position sure, than to hold an advanced position in Virginia.

CHARLESTON.

Reports from Charleston say that Gen. Gillmore has his large batteries nearly completed, and a new attack, by the army and navy, may be made at any time.

NEW ORLEANS.

We have several days later news from New Orleans. The only news of importance is from the Overland Texas Expedition. The forward march has been resumed, with continual skirmishing between our advance cavalry and that of the enemy. A general engagement was expected soon. Gen. Banks left New Orleans on the 8th to join the expedition.

MISSOURI.

The rebel raid lately undertaken by Shelby in Missouri has terminated most disastrously to his forces. Gen. Brown succeeded in getting at them three times in a running fight, and finally cornered them, when a battle ensued, which lasted five hours. The rebels were completely routed and scattered in all directions, with the loss of all their artillery, baggage, a large number of small arms, and prisoners. Their loss in killed and wounded is also very large. Our forces were in pursuit of the scattered rebels at last accounts.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Edgar L. Morse, of the Fourth Massachusetts regiment, has absented from duty to remember the rebels, as we learn by a paragraph in the Taunton Gazette. In the first assault upon Port Hudson, he was wounded in seven places, and taken and held prisoner until the surrender of the fortifications to General Banks. His right arm was shattered by two musket balls, and amputated below the elbow; a ball passed along his scalp, and a buckshot across his forehead, and still another ball through his thigh has left his right leg injured. The seventh wound was a musket-ball in the right breast.

Great Britain will one day be made to pay for the losses incurred by our merchant ships from pirate gunboats fitted out in English ports. The State Department is acting upon this presumption, for it is recording the exact money loss through this agency of the English pirate-ships. Not a merchant vessel is destroyed but the fact is recorded, and so far as is possible, the value of property is ascertained and written down.

The rebel blockade-running steamer E. R. Lee had a narrow escape in running the gauntlet at Wilmington, recently. Several shots were fired at her, one of which, a shell, entered her and exploded, injuring three of her crew. She succeeded in reaching Halifax, having on board, it is said, several rebel naval officers on their way to England for the purpose of bringing out some of the vessels building there.

A late letter from Memphis says: "A man named Browning is conspiring all the men on the Tallahatchie, ten miles north of Bolivar. He has bloodhounds that follow up conspirators and compel them to surrender. On Wednesday he came upon a man engaged in digging a grave for a dead child. He did not let him finish it, but dragged him along with them."

The English steamer Spaulding was captured by the U. S. supply steamer Union, while endeavoring to run the blockade of Wilmington, Oct. 11th. She had aboard a valuable assorted cargo. This is the second time this steamer has been captured—the first time being last April, while attempting to run into Bull's Bay, S. C. She was taken to Boston and sold to parties belonging to St. John, N. B.

It is reported from rebel sources that Lieut. Gen. Polk and Major-General Hindman have been relieved of their commands by order of Gen. Bragg, for alleged disobedience of orders—the latter for failing to occupy a certain pass in the mountains prior to the great battles and prevent a concentration of our forces, and the former for not opening the battle on Sunday at sunrise, instead of 10 o'clock.

Indiana has a noble record in the archives of the Government. She has been officially credited with an excess of 1,686 men over her quotas under all calls, and is now forming eleven regiments—seven of infantry and four of cavalry—all of which are expected to be filled by the 10th of November.

General Grierson, the hero of the great south-western cavalry expedition, had a public reception at Jacksonville, Illinois, his home, some days since. One of the features of the occasion was the presentation to him, by several young men of the town, of a silver teacup.

Our chaplains recently returned from Richmond report ten thousand of our men at Belle Isle, many of whom were in a suffering condition. For some reason, the rebels have pretty much suspended the exchange of prisoners.

The yellow fever has been very prevalent at Pensacola, but at last, after the surgeons had gained control of it, a Paymaster Jenkins, of the garrison, and Paymaster John U. Hill, had died of it.

The Government has now on hand in the arsenal 700,000 stand of arms, 500,000 of which are effective, and the number is rapidly increasing. There are also on hand 3,400 twenty-four and thirty-two pound smooth-bore cannon, which are rapidly being converted into effective guns by the rifling process.

Particulars of the sharp little engagement at Blue Springs, East Tennessee, show that after a hand-to-hand fight in a piece of woods, the rebels were routed and fled, leaving sixteen of their dead on the field. Our loss was four wounded and seven taken prisoners.

Reports from Mississippi say there was a sharp fight on the Big Black, in which the rebels were driven back, but rallied after receiving reinforcements, and succeeded, as they say, in driving the federals beyond the river. Four companies of the 2d Iowa Cavalry were captured at Hernando on Saturday.

It is calculated that the rebels lose one hundred slaves per day, who are valued at $100,000. At the same rate of loss the secesh, in one year, would be out of pocket $36,500,000 in the value of human chattels alone.

On the 1st of July there were 92,789 deserters from our armies. Since the establishment of the Bureau of Deserters, over 15,000 have been returned to their regiments.

Three ex-politicians of Memphis have been arrested for connection with the plot to burn the steamers on the western waters. They had a list of the boats and the prices to be paid for the destruction of each.

Further accounts of the attack upon Gen. Blunt's train in Arkansas, show that his escort disgracefully fled; and that the prisoners captured by the rebels were inhumanly butchered.

A whole company of guerrillas, on the way to cut the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, were captured on the 15th, near Martinsburg, Va.

The freight train on the New Haven Railroad, from New London on Saturday evening, Oct. 17th, run over a cow as they were going upon a bridge five or six miles beyond the latter place. The bridge was broken down and two cars thrown from the track. The place where the accident occurred was the Jordan river, where there is a trestle work bridge about 200 feet long. As the locomotive struck the cow, it became detached from the train with the tender and passed over. A baggage car wheel broke, which let the car down upon the bridge, when the structure gave way, carrying with it a passenger car and four freight cars into the river. None of the passengers were injured, and a horse which was in one of the cars, swam ashore when the door was opened, apparently uninjured. The conductor was badly cut about the head, but his wounds were not considered dangerous. A brakeman was severely injured, chiefly internally, but it was hoped not past recovery.

The great scarcity of coal in Cincinnati is causing serious inconveniences. Coal commands exorbitant prices, which places it out of the reach of many poor families, and even at the high prices asked, but little can be had, as the stock in the city is very light. Wood has also advanced in proportion to the rise in the price of coal, and it is now selling for three times its actual value.
