HOW TOTAKE CARE OF OURSELVES lat. Self-dependence must be re nounced. Solomon says, "He that trusteth to his own heart is a fool Jeremiah says. The heart is deceit ful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can know it?" The Saviour says, "Out of the heart pro coed evil thoughts, marders, adulteries, fornications, thefte, false wit ness, blasphemies." A poor thing to trust then, is one's self. Yet many seem to think they are able to stand in their own strength; and when they are warned of danger shead, they are offended because the warning supposes unconsciousness of danger, or personal virtue wanting to meet it. Some think they are strong enough, have discernment enough, and principle enough, to meet and grapple with anything, however insidious and dangerous. . Though they may put themselves in the way of temptation, and use means tend ing to foster and excite the bad with in them, yet they do not fear.
