For the Sabbath Recorder. LINES. Written on the death of Julia and Anna Clawson BY ANNIE E. PROST.

Death has been here, and borne away Two darlings from your side; In their bright morn of innocence And beauty, they have died.
Two sun-rays, that bedeck'd your way,
Have faded like the even; Two buds, that promised joys on earth, Now bloom for you in heaven. Our earth-air was for them too cold; Its chill they could not bear;

But in our Father's chosen fold, They know no fading there.
I vacant place your home shall know; Two loving hearts are still'd—
Two silvery voices bushed in death;
But so our Father will'd.

Oh! weep not, that they've found a rest From ills that met them here; If you could see them in their joy. Would you then shed a tear? With faith's clear eye, you can discern The crown of everlasting peace incircling each fair brow. joined by the peerless ones who wait

On that celestial shore, Singing with them at Jesus' feet, Their sorrows all are o'er. Then weep not o'er those early graves. Lift up that drooping heart.
And give thyself to Heaven anew All sorrowing as thou art! Bend 'neath the rod that chasteneth. And let this sorrow prove, Although a bitter, bitter draught,

A messenger of love— Calling thy heart away from earth, Where fairest treasures fade, Where brightest hopes, when dearest grown Must in their graves be laid-To that fair home, where no more pain. Nor sorrow, racks the heart,
Where all is rest, and love, and peace.
And loved ones never part.

"There can be but little doubt left in the minds of those who have attentively perused the details of the plot to assassinate the leaders of the government, that Andrew Johnson who has endured so much undeserved obloquy for his singular aberration on the 4th of March, was on that on casion under the influence, not of spirituous liquors, nor either of a mere disturbing drug, intended only to disfigure him, but of a deadle poison, furtively incinuated in h drink with a view to take his life ! is in proof, that the assassinations were to have been perpetrated on the 4th of March, and that Booth, the chief assassin, had posted himself in a position where Mr. Lincoln man would have expired in the Capitol from the effects of the posion he has taken.
