

The Sabbath Recorder

BY GEORGE B. UTTER.

The Sabbath Recorder, at the Donations... devoted to the exposition and vindication of the views and movements of that people...

NEW MUSIC BOOKS FOR CHORUS AND SCHOOLS.

NEW SACRED STAIRS. OR, UNION COLLECTION OF CHORUS MUSIC. For the use of Chorus, Singing Schools, Conventions, Musical Associations, &c. By Leonard Marshall.

NEW SKIRTS FOR 1865-6.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE IN HOOP SKIRTS. J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

AMERICAN BIBLE UNION.

Its object is to procure and circulate the most faithful versions of the Sacred Scriptures in all languages throughout the world.

ENGLISH NEW TESTAMENT.

REVISED FROM THE KING JAMES VERSION. This great work is now completed. It is printed on fair, open type, and makes a duo decimo volume of 766 pages.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A single grain of barley was planted by an agriculturist in the Isle of Man in 1829, and the same year produced three hundred grains.

THE PARIS RESTAURANTS.

In a Paris cafe, you will find as many women as men, respectable women too, who come with their husbands, and bring their children with them.

SKETCH OF A MILLIONAIRE.

No bank clerk on the salary of a thousand dollars a year goes to his bank as regularly, or works as many hours, as William B. Astor, who counts up his forty millions.

HOW TO MAKE BARKEN TREES FRUITFUL.

Persons unacquainted with the physiology of trees, wonder why taking a ring of bark from a tree that is barren, will make it produce fruit.

NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 10, WOODS' DAILY. (Sunday excepted.) 5 1/2 CENTS PER COPY. From Pier 28 N. E., foot of Vestry street, New York.

DENDLETON'S PHOTOGRAPHIC.

No. 5 CHATHAM SQUARE. Between East Broadway and Division Street. New York.

CURIOUS SIGNS IN ENGLAND.

A correspondent of a London journal writes: In traveling through Leicestershire, I have observed several curious rhymes on publicans' signs. The following are copies of some of them:

"Cook-a-doo-doo, How do you do? Are you hungry or thirsty to-day? If you are, you will find That to us we'll prove kind. If you'll stop, eat and drink, and then pay."

Again, at a place in Carlton, near to the historical town of Market Bosworth, is a house called the "Gate Inn," on the sign of which is:

"This gate hangs well, And hinders none; Refresh and pay, And travel on."

In Nottinghamshire I passed a house called "The Ass Inn." Here are the words:

"Pray, traveler, stay awhile, And look upon my sign; For if you see, you need not pass This humble house of mine."

Some years ago there were five public houses in the Gallowtree Gate, in Leicester, viz: The "Bear," the "Angel," the "Three Cups," the "Three Tuns," and the "White Horse."

In opposition to the others, the host of the latter house had the following rather witty lines inscribed upon his sign:

"My White Horse shall bite the 'Bear,' And make the 'Angel' fly; He'll turn the 'Three Cups' upside down, And drink the 'Three Tuns' dry."

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

Twenty marriages of divorced persons occurred during the year—half of the whole number being in London.

More than three-fourths of those married, both men and women, were under thirty years of age—proving that the mass of marriages were contracted at a suitable period of life.

But, on the other hand, thirty young ladies were married before they were sixteen, and two hundred and twenty-eight about the age of sixteen—showing a lack of good sense, either in the young ladies themselves, or in their natural protectors.

Worse and worse, six aspiring youths of sixteen must take to themselves wives, fortunately all rather older than themselves. Boys, it has often been noticed, are apt to fall in love with their seniors, and sometimes they live long enough to be a little amused with themselves for so doing.

Two ladies of about thirty-five married men above eighty; and one girl of sixteen married a man of seventy—a regular April and December affair.

One hundred and fifty-six men and forty-two women married after passing the scriptural "three-score years and ten." Probably they were lonely, and wanted companionship, even if they could not reasonably expect to get love. Eight of these aged gentlemen had been bachelors, and three of the ladies spinsters—exemplifying the old maxim, "Better late than never."

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract:

MUSQUITOES.

As mosquitoes claim so much attention at this particular season of the year, it may prove not uninteresting to briefly inquire into their natural history.

SECRET IN BAKING BREAD.

The grand secret and mystery in having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting and nutritive, is the exact point of time in putting it in. While in the state of dough it will readily run in various stages of fermentation—the first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar—the next is the vinous—the third the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES.

The curious ventures that are occasionally made on the great ocean of matrimony, never fail to become apparent when the official marriages are classified. For instance, the English returns of 1863 are now published, and we find in them the following statements:

HABITS OF GREAT STUDENTS.

Magliabecchi, the learned librarian to the Duke of Tuscany, never stirred abroad, but lived amid books. They were his bed, board, and washing. He passed eight and forty years in their midst, only twice in the course of his life venturing beyond the walls of Florence; once to go two leagues off, and the other time three and a half leagues, by order of the Grand Duke. He was an extremely frugal man, living upon eggs, bread and water, in great moderation.

THE COST OF THE REBELLION.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune has made a comprehensive exhibit of the cost of the rebellion to the government, which contains many interesting items. We condense his article and present the following abstract: