

EXECUTION OF WIRZ.

The Andersonville prison-keeper paid the penalty of his cruelty on Friday last, when he died on the scaffold. It is said that on a previous occasion he attempted to commit suicide. The story is, that his wife, in kissing him, introduced strychnine into his mouth. Gen. Baker choked him, and forced him to disgorge it.

On Friday morning, Father Boyle, of the Roman Catholic Church, administered the sacrament to Capt. Wirz, and Father Wiggett, also of the Roman Catholic Church, then placed upon the prisoner the black cambric robe, and remarked, as he did so, "I hope this will be turned into a white one in the other world."

At twenty minutes past ten o'clock, Capt. Wirz came from his cell in the Old Capitol Prison, accompanied by Provost-Marshal Russell and other officers, and by Fathers Boyle and Wiggett, and passing between the military guard they ascended the scaffold. The prisoner was then seated. The scaffold was 12 feet square and 22 feet to the top beam, with trap 14 feet from the ground.

After the usual ceremonies, the clergymen and spectators stepped to the railing on the outside of the scaffold, the drop fell, and in fifteen minutes Wirz was pronounced dead.

A plea in defence of Capt. Wirz, written under his direction, appeared in the New-York World. The following synopsis of it will give an idea of the leading facts brought out in the testimony, with his interpretation of them:

He reviews the charges made against him under sixteen heads. Most of the statements made in the testimony for the prosecution he denies point blank. For the truth of others he labors to present plausible explanations. He claims in the outset, that he was not the party properly responsible for the alleged outrages; neither for the location of the stockade, the establishment of the police regulations in it, the lack of supplies or of accommodations, the management of the hospital; and in regard to the charges of personal cruelty, he claims that he was not the monster that he has been depicted as being; that he did not cause, nor delight in the sad spectacle of the sufferings, woes, and deaths of Union prisoners; that he did not contribute to their sufferings; but that, on the contrary, he did what lay in his power to diminish or alleviate them.

Upon the charges of murder, he says the specifications cover thirteen distinct crimes, three by shooting with his own hand, one by jumping and stamping upon a prisoner, three by torturing prisoners in stocks and chain gang, four by ordering sentries to fire upon prisoners, one by having a soldier torn in pieces, and one by beating a soldier with a revolver. He claims that the name, regiment, date, or circumstances are not, in single instance, stated in the specifications; and that in the whole mass of testimony, there are but two cases of this character, that there is any possibility of fixing with any definiteness. In the first of these cases he asserts that the fatal shot was fired by another man, though he (Wirz) drew his revolver upon the victim. In regard to the other case he attempts to make out that there was no such man in the prison. Of the blood hounds, he says he was not responsible for their being kept, and that he was identified with only one case where a prisoner was injured by them, and then the man did not die. The story of his granting furloughs to his men as reward for shooting prisoners, he calls an absurd camp rumor.

In the whole story of starvation he says there is no truth except that there was at one time, when a commotion existed in the camp, a partial stoppage of rations confined to one squad. The helplessness of his arms he urges as a sufficient refutation to the charges of personal violence. For the vaccination affair he says no one could be responsible but the surgeons. The whipping he admits, but says it was inflicted for sufficient cause. The comparing his services to those of regiments at the front he calls a gross exaggeration of his language. In conclusion, he "cannot believe that the Commission will draw their intelligence for the sake of crushing out the last faint embers of a life that is just bubbling out; that they will consent to let the present and future generations say of them, that they stepped down from their high positions at the bidding of power, or at the more reckless dictate of ignorant, widespread prejudice, to consign to a felon's doom a poor saboteur officer who, in a difficult post, sought to do his duty, and did it."

THANKSGIVING DAY, according to President Johnson, is to be on the 17th of December. Several of the Governors of States in New England had appointed an earlier day; but they are changing their appointments, and it is not unlikely that the whole country will fix upon the day appointed by the President. The Governors of Massachusetts and Connecticut have already changed the day so as to conform to the appointment of the President.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.—The government receipts from customs in gold for the first quarter ending September 30, amounted to the enormous sum of forty-six millions two hundred and thirty-seven thousand two hundred and seventy dollars, or four millions more than half the total receipts from this source during the fiscal year ending the 30th of June last, and nearly half as large as the annual receipts for 1864, which were the largest ever received since the formation of the government. The receipts for the month just ended will be more than ten millions. The receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1866, at the rate of the amount for the first quarter, will be $184,948,868, which will make the total revenue of the government for twelve months over five hundred millions.

RATIFICATION OF THE SLAVERY PROHIBITION amendment to the national Constitution, is insisted upon by President Johnson as a necessary condition of restoration to the Union. This was very plainly stated, last week, in a conversation with representatives of North Carolina, who asked the President to deplete the first ratification of North Carolina with the United States, and to repeal the Congressional test oath. Similar doctrine has been officially conveyed to the Provisional Governors of South Carolina and Florida.

LARGE LEGACIES.—The executors of the will of the late Dr. William J. Walker, of Boston, have notified the trustees of the Society of Natural History, the Institution of Technology, and Amherst and Tufts Colleges, that they are ready to pay into the treasury of each of these institutions the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, as installments of the legacies bequeathed to them by the will. This is about one half the sum which it is expected each of these institutions will receive from this source.

AN engineer at Nashville sent a workman under his locomotive to oil the running gear, and then, forgetting his presence, ran his engine ahead just far enough to cut off one of the man's legs. A bystander shouted to warn the engineer, who thereupon backed his machine in diamay, and cut off the other leg of the unfortunate workman. He survived, however, and suing the company for $50,000 damages, has obtained $3,500.

At a large meeting in New York City, to take measures that will prevent, as far as possible, a visit of the cholera, a visitation from house to house was proposed. In addition to this, it was proposed that there should be "Houses of Refuge," or tents, where the poor could be placed, if it be necessary to cause their houses to be vacated in order to cleanse them.

A number of the colored men of Norfolk, Va., have combined to purchase a farm of 1000 acres for $100,000 on Currituck Sound, 20 miles from Norfolk. They expect to cut it up into 40 farms of 25 acres each. The National Freedmen's Savings Bank already has deposits exceeding a quarter of a million of dollars, and as Government pays off the colored troops the amount grows rapidly.

Proposals have been issued for a line of steamers to run at least once a month between Valparaiso and England, by way of the Straits of Magellan, the steamers to be of not less than 2000 tons, and to touch at Punta Arenas, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo, and Rio Janeiro. A subsidy of $100,000 per annum will be paid by the government of Chili.

The large and elegant water-cure establishment of Dr. Monde at Florence, Mass., near Northampton, was entirely destroyed by fire on Tuesday evening, Nov. 8th. The fire originated in one of the rooms. Only a part of the furniture was saved. The house was filled with boarders for the winter.

The proprietor of a hotel in Barre, Mass., was shooting at a target in the rear of his house, one day last week, when the ball from his rifle struck a horse on the road, which was being driven by two ladies. The horse was almost instantly killed.

It is stated that about $1,000,000 in five cent notes will be manufactured and sent South for circulation, owing to the scarcity of small change in the reconstructed states; also, that no more fractional currency will be furnished for the Northern States at present.

A female somnambulist walked from Charleston to Mobile, last night last week, and was finally awakened by the crying of a baby that was passing by in a carriage. "Perley" says that the estimates for the next fiscal year are being reduced by express command of President Johnson, and some predict that they will not exceed $125,000,000.

ably adapted for skating, as the hands can be withdrawn without danger of losing the muf. The collar to match this style of muf is narrow, being made of one entire skin, the head and tail forming the lapets in front.

It is too early in the season to judge with much certainty of the prospects of the retail trade, but the probability is, that it will be equal to that of any other year.

The present style of fur collar, known as the "Eugenie," is an improvement on the form in which it first appeared, being somewhat larger and more ornamental.

The Siberian squirrel fur is much used for children's wear. It is made up in caps, comprising a collar, muf and cuffs.

There is a novel muf. It is composed in the shape of a water-cooler, which holds a quantity of water, and is called the "water muf."

NOTE FOR NOVEMBER. November comes, and leaves are dry, And rustle on the ground, And smiling winds go whistling by, With low and plaintive sound.

THE GROWING SEASON is nearly over. Cold storms prevail. Unpleasant weather frequently keeps farmers within doors for several successive days.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN has been gathered in, for the most part; fruit and vegetables are being secured; animals are seeking more comfortable retreats from the piercing cold and driving storms; and every prudent farmer is making proper preparations for winter.

There is a decided improvement this season in collars for gentlemen. The collar was formerly made with fur only upon the outside, but the upper part of the inside is now lined with fur, and the collar can be turned down like the collar of an overcoat.

we have put them into the cellar at the close of a warm day in October, when the apples were warmer than the cellar. Put them in the cellar in November, when the apples are colder than the cellar, and they will condense the warmer moisture of the room upon them.

OUR NATIONAL DEBT. Stationers are useful in correcting erroneous estimates, reducing extravagant claims, and properly guiding the aims of statesmen and the transactions of merchants.

Now, estimating the weight of a silver dollar at one ounce, sixteen of them would make a pound, and reckoning 2000 pounds to the ton, the entire debt would weigh 125,000 tons, and therefore 125 ships of 1000 tons each would be required to forward it by water.

THE MOHAMMEDANS. To the Saracens we are indebted for the cotton manufacture. Through their influence the art was extended from Japan to the Gulf of Guinea, from the Pyrenees to the equinoctial line.

Let any sober citizen think of more than the whole population of New York city, including men, women, and children, busy counting silver at the rate of 60 dollars per minute, and so engaged without cessation for the space of one hour, and he will see some similitude of the debt in coin rise tangibly before him.

BOOK-KEEPING. This is an art much more practiced in private houses than in public stores, many persons not in the trade being adepts in the business.

WOMEN AND MEN.—Very intelligent women, we find by observation, are seldom beautiful. The formation of their features, and especially the forehead, is more or less masculine.

WHY THE REBELLION COLLAPSED. There is truth in this statement of the Mobile News: "The South is not only overcome, but has overcome itself, in its own gigantic efforts; it has not only been conquered, but it is exhausted, astounded, and peasting for life's breath."
