THE ELECTIONS.

The real question pending in th recent elections has been, not wh shall be Governor, and Congressmen but whether the people of the lova States will stand by the action of Congress in making the adoption of its latest proposed Amendment to the Constitution a condition of reconstruction and admission to Congress of the States lately in rebellion. The result thus far is decidedly favorable o the plan of Congress. There is little room to question, that the next Congress will be of a piece with the last, and that, therefore, the plan adopted will be adhered to.

There are indications that the Southern States begin to see this and are anxious to secure a place in Congress before harder conditions, and possibly the policy of confiscation, shall be adopted. Not a few of the Southern newspapers are now discussing the proposed Amendment in a candid and favorable manner. It is said that Governor Orr, of South lature of that State together, for the

The matter came back, not only with proof that with her own hands the widow had planted-the vine, but with the surprising disclosure, that she had accompanied the act by the declaration (admissible in evidence as what lawyers call part of the res gestee,) "when it gets big enough I will sit under it and think of poor Robert." The Commissioner of the General Land Office d course decided in her favor, and of appeal his decision was emphatically affirmed.

A MODERN TRAGEDY.

A tragedy which occurred at Chicago, on the 5th of September, is described as follows by a newspaper correspondent :

The victim was George Trussell, a young man thirty-two years of age, a sporting man by profession, and, with Mr. A. F. Fawcet, owner of the well known trotting horse Dexter. Trussell was born in Danville, Vt., rethe lived until 1849. He then ter in root houses or cellars, where ployed by a prominent business firm served a better purpose than straw, -Richmond & Co.
