In Little Genesee, N. Y., Feb. 18th, 1867, S NETTIE, voungest daughter of Judge Prosse aged 4 years and 6 months. Dear friends, the brightest floweret From your garden hath been shorn,

And from home's loving circle Your darling Nettie torn. Yes, death upon her sinless brow His icy seal hath pressed, 📖 And the little golden head no more Will on your bosom rest. Ah! never again her fairy step Will greet your listening car: Forever hushed the joyous tones You loved so well to hear. Though never more her snowy arms May 'round your neck entwine, Jesus whispers, '' For a season I but lent her; she was mine. "She is mine, I claim my own;

If I leave her unto thee, Thou wilt make of her an idol, So I take her unto me. While you bow in deepest anguish O'er your darling's early tomb, Angels softly point you upward To yon blue, ethercal dome.; Whispering, In that land of glory, Far beyond the dazzling sun,

Jesus, in his arms of mercy, Gently folds your little one. Then be patient, stricken mourners, For He doeth all things well; Live for God, that, reunited, You in heaven with her may dwell.

CLEANSE THE BLOOD.-WITH Corrupt, or tainted Blood, you are sick all over. It may burst out in Pimples, or Sore, or in some active disease, or it may merely keep you listless, depressed and good for me-thing. But you cannot have good health while your blood is impare. Aren's Sansa-PARILLA purges out these impurities; it exels disease and restores health and stimulate the organs of life into vigorous action. known in Cyprus and Egypt; it used Maderia, where curs of every description abound, tormented by diseases, insects, thirst, and famine. The cruel experiment has even been tried of chaining dogs to a wall under a barning sun, until they died of thirst, but they showed no symptoms of rabies. Careful records of canine madness are kept at the veterinary schools of Alfort, Lyons, and Toulouse, in France, and from these it appears that the majority of cases occur not in the hottest but in the wettest-months. There are twice and three times as many in April, November, and December, as in June, July and August. Probably no accurate register has ever been kept in this ing the infection from another is country, but we make no doubt that about as 1 to 3. N. F. Tribune. the disease is more prevalent in the etispring months than at any other time of the year. Bearing this in mind, our readers indiscriminate slaughter every dog found running loose during the very period when, if there is any truth in statistics, his running loose is attended with least danger. We dare say that very few of the animals which are killed in the streets, under the supposition, that they are mad, really have hydrophobia, the popular idea of what constitutes a mad dog being far from accurate. The symptoms, however, are unmistakable to an experienced eye: The dog usually begins by being sullen and restless. He betrays extraord by anxiety sbout trivial or imaginary objects. He is subject to strange hallucinations, sometimes of a pleasant, but oftener of a fearful nature. His appetite is depraved he refuses his usual food, and is eager for everything that is filthy and horrible. His violent itching of the ear; he paws the corners of his mouth; he seems for a few seconds in this position, insensible to pain, so much so that a when the sheep made a spring and and hold with his mouth a red-hot poker, and another to gnaw his tail off close to the base. The voice changes in a very remarkable mannet. There is a foaming at the mouth, but it is always less than is observed in epilepsy and nauses, and never lasts long. The stories of mad dogs covered with foam are fabulous. Dogs recovering from or attacked by sit are sometimes seen in this state : bat fits have no relation whatever to madness. Then we have the violent thirst which we have already mentioned. Unless the animal is naturally ferocious, he shows no disposition to bite, until he reaches the last and most violent stage of the disease, and indeed not always then. On the contrary his affection for his master seems to be increased, and he is incersatly, attempting to lick the and and face of the persons he loves. This is a propensity which must be carefully guarded against It is not the bite of the mad dog which, is poisonous, but his saliva, which the be introduced into the of the sipe, or any little abrasion of the stim as well as through a wound made of the animal's teeth.
