

Sir Henry Wray, during the Wars of the Roses, was imprisoned in the Tower. A cat...

Hour by hour, In his dark and narrow tower, Faded light, with weary yoking...

Soft and low, Velvet footsteps come and go, Quick as wind, passing thro' the door...

Soft eyes beam, Through the lattice, dimly gleam; His cold white teeth pressing...

With a faint, tender gleam, Through the dark with tender gleam, He smiles and says to me...

Wife and child, He sits and waits, He looks at his wife's hair...

Soft and slow, Daily come I sit at night, In his mother's place, hearing...

Soft and low, Velvet footsteps come and go, Quick as wind, passing thro' the door...

Now, your case is precisely similar. It is not R. F. Cottrell that says...

And there are some statements in his last English call for comment, and some for correction. He accuses me of saying, in my discourse, that Adventists teach that 'the soul is nothing but the breath'...

He also brings a grave charge against me of misrepresenting Mr. Loughborough, and says, "Notwithstanding I corrected your error, you still keep up with this monstrous quotation, as much the language of Noah Webster as any one man, professed as follows: 'In the standard publications of Adventists, I find such statements as the following: 'The soul is nothing but the breath'..."

Paul exhorted to beware of dogs. He meant dogs, as well as men, big and small, who are dangerous. A cross dog is more easily managed than a dog of the same name, but near skin, which we should call Bears, and warn friends to beware of them.

You quote from brethren Waggoner and Loughborough, that they were of the opinion that the Sabbath was made for man, and that it is not of man's making, but that man was made for it. You quote from brethren Waggoner and Loughborough, that they were of the opinion that the Sabbath was made for man, and that it is not of man's making, but that man was made for it.

And, again, says Bro. C., "Dost he is perfectly organized into the shape of a man, it is no better in this respect than the organization of a dog, a horse, or a pig." I have been accustomed to hear that the power of thought is something communicated by Jehovah, and is not the result of living, organized dust. If so, it is all the concession I ask of you, that the power of thought is not communicated by Jehovah, but is the result of living, organized dust.

Bro. C. winds up by exhorting me to believe, by which I infer that he wishes me to believe as he does. I am anxious to believe whatever I truly believe, but that truth is never absurd, nor does it ever contradict any other truth, or sound reason.

THE WAY TO SING. The birds sing in their nests, The bees hum in their swarms, The cuckoo calls in the woods, The dove coos in the bower...

BEWARE OF BEARS. He meant dogs, as well as men, big and small, who are dangerous. A cross dog is more easily managed than a dog of the same name, but near skin, which we should call Bears, and warn friends to beware of them.

HAPPINESS. LECTURE BY HENRY WARD BEECHER. The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher lectured on "Happiness," on a recent evening, at Plymouth church, Brooklyn, before a large audience.

FEMALE BEAUTY. Men in society have, from time immemorial, raved about the beauty of women, and poets in rhymes and romances have sung the praises of the fair.

THE HOLY LAND. EXPLORATIONS AT JERUSALEM. Among the many things done by Miss Barrett Counts, for which her name will be held in lasting gratitude, her contribution for bringing back to this country the remains of the Holy Land is perhaps the most valuable.

SORROW FOR THE DEAD. The following beautiful extract from Irving's "Sketch Book" was read at the funeral of Mrs. Emma T. Main, lately deceased:

DEPARTMENTS.—It is cheap and easy to destroy. There is not a joy for us but has its sorrow. There is not a purpose of duty, in all the street full of eager and rosy faces, but a cynic on chill and disheartened with a single word.

MUTUAL FORTIFICATION.—If we wish to succeed in life, we must learn to take men as they are, and not as they ought to be; making them better if we can, but at the same time remembering their faults, and not forgetting to be kind to them.

THE GREATEST MAN IS HE WHO SHOWS THE RIGHT WITH INVARIABLE CONSISTENCY, WHO RESISTS THE SOFT COMPLACENCY OF THE MIDDLE COURSE, WHO NEARS THE HEAVIEST BARBERS OF OBEDIENCE, WHO IS THE CALMEST IN STRIFE, AND WHOSE RELIANCE ON TRUTH AND GOD, IS THE MOST UNDOUBTING.

Mr. Wilkison, in his two articles in the December and February numbers of Scribner's Monthly, on "The Burden of the Polity," has done good service as well to churchmen as to the general public.

SLEEP AND DEATH. "To live without fearing death," said Huxley, "is the only means of being happy and enjoying life." People who dread death seldom attain longevity.

HOW NOT TO BE BEAUTIFUL. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face.

STAND ON ONE OF THE CROWDED STREETS, AND NOTE THE BEAUTY OF THE FACES. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face.

DEATH IS AS NATURAL AS LIFE. Both come to us in the same way, without our consciousness, without our being able to determine the advent of either. No one knows the exact moment of death.

large number of academies and high-schools scattered all over the State, and her richly-endowed system of common schools. Her charitable institutions are monuments of the people's generosity. Among them are the Insane Asylum, situated on the north side of fourth lake, about three miles from Madison, a massive and beautiful structure; the Blind Institute at Janesville, Deaf and Dumb Institute at Delavan, and other benevolent institutions of charity which are an honor and a credit to this young State.

In the House, a bill was introduced, enjoining the collection of the New York Central Railroad tax. The bill for the establishment of the Northwestern boundary line was passed. The McGarranaham bill was passed by a joint resolution which leaves the President free to exercise in the matter his own judgment.

In the Senate, a bill creating a new judicial district in Arkansas was defeated. The Legislative Appropriation bill was further amended and passed. In the House, the bill was suspended as to give the Appropriation bill precedence over other bills until passed. A substitute for the Senate bill incorporating the South Pacific Railway was passed.

THE MAGAZINES. THE ATLANTIC for March has moved from Mr. J. T. Field's "Whispering Gallery," giving reminiscences of Hawthorne, and relating several anecdotes illustrative of the personal tastes and habits of the celebrated novelist. When a school-boy he wrote verses for the newspapers, but ignored their existence in the "Atlantic," asking for the position of "editorial" in England, he was never tired of writing home about the hedgerows, the grassy meadows, and the picturesque old cottages. He loved to stroll through the distant fields on a Saturday morning, and hear the distant bells chiming to service, although he never relished the confinement of the pew, and rarely listened to an English sermon. He liked better to wander among the graves in the church-yard, and read the epitaphs on the moss-grown slabs, preferring the company of the sexton to that of the rector. He never found himself thoroughly at home in any one country, and the Republics stately voting, and a vote was cast for the United States, and he writes: "I bitterly detest Rome, and shall rejoice to bid it farewell forever, and I fully acquiesce in all the mischief and ruin that has happened downward."

still more oppressive, the great coal companies, the Delaware and the Delaware Canal Company, and the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad Companies, have agreed to go together to carry on any mining operations whatever until the miners are brought to terms.

THE EUROPEAN WAR ENDED. For a week past, the Atlantic Cable has been busy with reports of peace negotiations, affirming one day what was denied the next. At length, however, we have what may be regarded as settling the question of peace or war. A dispatch from Paris, Sunday, Feb. 26th, says: The conclusion of peace is now certain. Thiers and Favre and the consultation committee have accepted the terms of the German army to enter Paris on Monday, and occupy Champs Elysees.

A "CAVALRY," so called, came off in Washington last week. It consisted, in the day time, of racing, pleasure driving, and a civic procession; in the evening, an illumination and fireworks. The daylight doings are spoken of with qualified approbation; the evening doings with unqualified approbation. The streets were thronged with visitors, many of whom were attracted as much, probably, by the half-price tickets on the railroad, as by their curiosity to see Washington.

The following appears as an advertisement in the New Bedford (Mass.) Mercury. The movement is so clearly in the right direction, that we gladly give free insertion to the advertisement: "Rath Russell is ready to receive scholars for instruction in cooking. Special attention to be given to bread making and pure good yeast. Persons at service can receive instruction in one or all the various branches of cooking on favorable terms."

PETER COOPER celebrated his eightieth birthday-day in a sensible and generous manner, by giving one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to a library of reference for working men in New York. Such acts have a double value; they not only accomplish a laudable object, but they set an example which is worth as much as the object.

The British members of the Joint High Commission arrived in New York last week. Their coming is welcomed by all good citizens, who rejoice in the prospect of an early settlement of the questions between this country and Great Britain.

A DEADLY COLLEGE EXPLOSION occurred in South Wales, on Saturday, Feb. 25th. At last accounts, fifty dead bodies had been taken from the mine.

ADAMS CATER, N. Y.—Notwithstanding there seems to be a great religious dearth resting upon a large portion of our own society, yet the friends of Christ, of our own and of the foreign churches, are uniting their efforts in holding joint morning prayer and evening preaching meetings, with a manifest and joyful success. A powerful revival is in progress at the state-road church, one mile from us. We are having a fine Jefferson County winter. Clear weather, steady cold temperature, and good sleighing are the rule. E. S. S.

THE COAL FAMINE. For a week past, the price of coal has occupied much space in the newspapers and in the conversation of the people. On the 24th of February, according to a telegram of that date, coal was selling in New York at 20 cents per bushel, or about $28 per ton. On the same date, however, the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company advertised that they had issued orders to hold all their coal on hand for distribution to families at $8 and $8 50 per ton. One of our exchanges gives the following explanation as to how the coal famine has been produced: "The operators of coal mines have suffered many inconveniences and much loss of profit upon invested capital on account of miners' strikes, and for the purpose of satisfying each other in their demands, and in resistance to the reduction proposed by their employers. The capitalists have determined, by one desperate and combined effort, to crush the labor unions. They have done this by agreeing to enter into an agreement by which the price of coal was to be raised to $10 per ton. The Reading Railroad has made a corresponding advance in its rates of carriage, demanding more than double its former charges. To render the effect

A serious shooting affair occurred recently at the house of Mordecai Kelly, about four miles west of Monroe, W. Va. A couple were married at Kelly's house, and after they had retired, a party of youngsters, mostly relatives of the bride, assembled at the house, and, taking an old snapper, fired a crowd, which went off, instantly killing a brother of the bride, named Gaiter, and seriously wounding two others.

Iron Ore, taken from the Black Hills, near the highest level of the Union Pacific Railroad, was smelted at Omaha, and found of excellent quality, yielding eighty per cent. of superior metal. Three hills of the Ore lie near the Railroad; and, as the material is so much accessible, it is practically inexhaustible, the Union Pacific propose to use it in their smelting and casting shops, whose furnace (Mr. Fawcett) is said to have invented a new smelting furnace, which dispenses with the an or blower.

A dispatch from Magnolia, Miss., announces the death of Mr. John N. Conyngham, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who was killed at that place by being run over by a railroad train. The families of E. B. Pitkin and Lester Dewey, of East Windsor, Conn., were poisoned on the 14th of Feb., by arsenic in packages of prize candy, sent to them by mail from Windsor by a woman named Shiles. The arsenic was found in the candy, and the families were poisoned. No deaths have resulted from the poisoning, though Mrs. Dewey was in a dangerous condition.

An elaborately dressed man, who claimed to be a Russian Prince, and an intimate friend of Napoleon, was recently arrested in Paris for picking pockets in church. He was in the habit of praying at great length, and relieving persons kneeling at his side of their purses while he was at his devotions. The quarterly meetings of Friends will be held in it next May.

One of the most distinguished literary men in Russia, Michaelowitch Gornichowski, died recently in Moscow. Few persons in America ever heard of him, and yet he is credited with some of the most beautiful poetry of his time.

Miscellaneous. HOW TO SLEEP WELL. The following is an extract from Edward Everett Hall's lecture on sleep.

But in Western Pennsylvania it is no uncommon thing to see the head of a family carry a hod of coal up from an cellar, and replenish the fire, by which his husband and sons sit, idly yawning, and quite at a loss what to do with their time.

It may be not generally known to our readers, that water, even salt water, imbibed through the pores of the skin, appears to act almost as well as fresh water taken inwardly.

It is a considerable time before I could make the people comply with this measure, although, from seeing the good effected, I tried to do so.

AN ESSAY ON SHOESTRINGING. A shoestring is a good thing. With what intense admiration we look upon the man who makes a string out of a circular piece of leather.

IDIOTNESS. In discussing the causes of want and woe, Mrs. Swishburn, in a letter to the Independent, gives a prominent place to idiotism.

It appears to be generally conceded, that New England has a larger proportion of useful, industrious men, than any other portion of this country; that her communities there are in advance of those in the other parts of the world in intelligence, morality, and religion; and, to my mind, it is very true, that the result is due to the domestic habits which find employment for children, more than to the churches, colleges, and schools.

ODDS AND ENDS. During the entire war, but one act of sacrilege was committed on the tomb of Washington. One soldier, wishing to connect his name with that of the illustrious hero, stole his ignoble initials on the sarcophagus of Washington, by means of some sharp instrument which he introduced through the grating.

VIOLATION OF GENIUS. Coleridge was such a slave to liquor that he had to be kept an unwilling prisoner at "Christher North" on an occasion when some literary performances had to be completed by a certain time; and on that very day, without taking leave of any member of the family, he ran at full speed down the avenue to Ebury, and was soon hidden, not in some obscure den, where, drinking among low companions, his magnificent mind was soon brought to the level of the vile.

INEBRIATES. Of those individuals known as inebriates, or dipsomaniacs, the number in this country is estimated to be twice as many as in any other country. The word dipsomania, though in popular use, does not correctly express what is meant to be understood.

GIUNDES IN THE EYE. Travelers, especially by railroad, are liable to the lodgment of small particles of dust or cinders inside the lid, or upon the front of the eyeball, causing great suffering.
