CASES OF CONSCIENCE.

TESTS LETTER.

Covenant Brother, - In your letter, of recent date, you ask to know my views of "secret societies in general, and of temperance secret societies in particular..."

1. Such orders are wrong, per se. For (a) they appeal to the lower and baser elements of human nature to procure our acceptance of them...

2. Secret societies have a poor record in history; especially the ecclesiastical and political societies of this kind that have existed or still exist...

3. Secret societies are in their nature contrary to the spirit, and in their workings are destructive of the institutions of the Christian religion...

4. Go on, brethren; you are right; you have the truth. Hold up the light. You can't be right if you suffer martyrdom for the truth...

5. I have a good situation now. If I should keep the Sabbath I should make less money; and I believe the Lord will consider my case, knowing my heart and excuse me...

has not in himself the power to effect his entire release from the corruption and bondage of evil and wicked habits...

Further, you help them by a moral force, of more importance, if possible, than your pecuniary aid. You make them feel that their efforts to thoroughly equip themselves for their sacred calling are appreciated...

immediate neighborhood on Lost Creek would be a beautiful country, if there were good farm houses, neat out-buildings, and good fences...

both services were well and regularly attended; and two weekly prayer meetings were conducted by the church, one at DeRuyter, on Friday evening...

THE RESURRECTION. FROM THE DEAD AND OF THE DEAD. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SABBATH RECORDER.

LETTERS FROM WEST VIRGINIA. NUMBER FIVE. LOST CREEK, WEST VA., MARCH 15, 1871.

I write from the top of one of the highest peaks in this section of the country. It is not the highest of these hills, it is said to command the best view of the surrounding country...

Yes, brother, sister, you can be excused if you will; and your seat will be vacant, or be filled by another, in the kingdom of God...

THE SABBATH RECORDER, MARCH 30, 1871. WENDELL, R. L., FIFTH-DAY, March 30, 1871. GEORGE B. UTTER, EDITOR.

A SUGGESTION. TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. There are at present, perhaps, a half dozen or more churches distant on the north, in the fine bottom lands through which Lost Creek winds its way, far below me...

BOOK NOTES. The Examiner and Chronicle, and the Watchman and Director, thus speak: "The Sabbath and the Sunday, by Rev. A. H. Lewis, A.M., (American Sabbath Tract Society) Alfred C. N. T., includes both a scriptural and a historical argument for the perpetual obligation to observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath of the Lord..."

"HAVE ME EXCUSED." ED. A. H. LEWIS: - I have been much interested in reading the correspondence between a "Covenant Brother" and a "Covenant Sister," with their "Pastor," in your department of the RECORDER...

A ROYAL WEDDING. Wilder Castle, near London, England, on the 21st day, March 21st, 1871, the Princess Louise was married to the Duke of Albany. The Princess Louise is the daughter of the late Queen Victoria, and the Duke of Albany is the son of the late Prince Albert. The wedding was a grand affair, and was attended by many of the nobility and gentry of the country. The bride and groom were both dressed in the most magnificent manner, and the ceremony was performed with great solemnity and pomp. The wedding breakfast was also a grand affair, and was followed by a ball which lasted until the early hours of the morning. The Princess Louise is now residing at the Palace of St. James, and the Duke of Albany is now residing at the Palace of Clarence House.

A lady in Chicago says: "Take my advice, my sister, help him himself to the highest, by taking, or beats his horse across in a fit of temper."

"What do you mean by a cat and dog life? said a husband to his wife. "Look at Carlo and Kitty asleep on the rug; I wish men lived half as peacefully as their wives."

Some of the papers make merry over the names of the recent graduates from the New York University. M. Dahirian, of Turkey; G. S. Hoggopon, of Syria; and Tien Hien, of Siam...

What a strange, desperate notion it is of men, they have erred, that things are at their worst, nothing can be done to rescue them; whereas Judas might have done something better than hang himself.

The present partners of the Rothschilds number some 70 in all, and are scattered all over the world. The fourth remove from Mayor Anselm, was the founder of the great family of Hebrew bankers.

The woman journals seem to endorse the action of Governor English in granting a divorce to a man whose wife had become insane. They say it is, that no law ought to oblige the man to support a woman whose nature had practically become a blank.

In the British Museum are a number of cases bequeathed by Francis Douce, the well-known literary antiquary, on condition that they are not to be opened until the year 1900. No one is aware of their contents.

Prof. D. D. Smith, at the late annual commencement of the Philadelphia Dental College, stated that Aristotle was a user of tobacco in ancient Roman times before the time of Augustus.

Edwin P. Whipple says that the taxable value of all the property of the United States in 1860, was in a rate of increase of 100 per cent of a fraction more than 126 per cent.

In a brief temperance article, the other day, the Toledo (Ohio) Blade attempted to say something about "the older point in the bottle," but the perverse types got it "the chief point in the bottle."

Whitely in your greatest enemy. "Bible says, Mr. President, don't be angry with your enemies; we are to love our enemies!" "Oh, yes, Jones, but it don't say we are to swallow them."

A Boston lover of the west exhibits to his friends a ball of tin-foil weighing 14-1/2 pounds, which he had rolled in two years' time from papers of tobacco chewed by him.

A Bordeaux correspondent states that Henri Rochfort is suffering from consumption, that his lungs have been affected for years, and that he lies in bed, in the attitude of things, like a log.

A religious weekly attributes to Clara Louisa Kellogg's success as an opera singer to the fact that she was reared in and still adheres to the Methodist faith.

A programme for a celebration in honor of the revolution has been arranged by the citizens of Graz, the capital of Styria, Austria. The ex-Emperor Eugenie is said to be on his last terms with her husband's relatives, that she has refused to see any of them at Chislehurst.

An Iowa school teacher, a woman, has been discharged for forcing a big girl to show how he kissed the girls in the wood house. A fight occurred in the Nevada State Prison between the convicts, in which several were dangerously wounded.
