commence a moment too soon, and that a delay of fifteen minutes would have rendered necessary the killing of hundreds of the rioters. The greatest occasion for regret is, that so many of the killed were persons drawn to the place by mere curiosity; but they ought to have kept out of such company. The wounding of Col. James Fish, Jr., and the killing of two members of his regiment by the rioters, was enough to disturb their equanimity.

Under this head, one of our exchanges comments upon a series of crimes committed within a few days, and raises the question whether there may not be some connection between them and the tropical weather we have been experiencing. We give the cases in brief, and leave our readers to indulge their own reflections and draw their own conclusions.

In the peaceful neighborhood of Shabona Grove, Iroquois county, Illinois, a well-to-do widow lady was seated at supper with her family, when a short-tempered man slipped some arsenic in the coffee she was mixing. She drank heartily, and fell dead shortly afterward.

From Iroquois county, Illinois, comes another tale of inconceivable depravity. Martin Mera, a small farmer, in an impulse of ungovernable rage drove a red-hot poker, to the hilt, into the back of his wife's head.

On the same day, at Elgin, Ill., one of the most industrious and flourishing regions in the State, two men, Aaron and Davis, who had been engaged in a law suit, met on Herron's farm. He, feeling the Anglo-Saxon land-rage, rather than the abnormal hospitality, ordered Davis away.

On Tuesday of last week was theenary day of a class of Irish emigrants known as Orangemen—connected in the public mind with the Boyce. In New York, a riot was likely to occur in connection with the parade of the regiment, unless a strong demonstration against it was made by the military authorities.

On Tuesday, at an order from the Mayor, against the expectation of an order which was regarded as giving in to the mob. In the course of the day, however, the Mayor of New York became satisfied that the public would not sustain the Chief of Police's proclamation to the effect that the Orangemen should be permitted their right to parade.

The Erie Railway now runs to Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls. A notice of the opening of the Niagara Division appears in one of our exchanges as follows:

On the occasion of the opening of the Niagara Division of the Erie Railway, July 8th, the excursion train consisted of twenty of the most gorgeous coaches ever seen upon this continent, drawn by two electric locomotives that were decorated by a profusion of flags, streamers, and immense banners.

At the head of the train were decorated by a profusion of flags, streamers, and immense banners. The course of people gathered at the foot of the Niagara were immense. Bands of music played, and the crowd joined in the refrains. At the train was received amidst the acclamations of approval from an immense assembly.

On June 30th, 1870, there existed in the United States a total number of lager beer breweries of 2,162. On the 30th of 1870, there existed in the United States a total number of lager beer breweries of 2,162.

The London News contains an account of a curious experiment, recently tried by the Free Sunday Association, a body which employs itself in countering the Sabbatarian efforts. This Association has, it appears, had the audacity to apply before the Lord Mayor for a summons against his lordship's state coachman.

The United States army comprises at the present time about 30,000 men, divided into forty regiments, of which ten are cavalry and five artillery. It comprises more than 300 military posts, including 2,277 commissioned officers.

occupations cannot be viewed as a work of necessity, but only a work of display and pomp." The Lord Mayor refused to grant the summons, on the ground that the "offense did not come within the statute."

VALLENGRANDE AND JOHN BROWN.—Vallengrande said to have visited John Brown at Harper's Ferry, and received from him the following answer to the question who were his associates:

"No man sent me here; it was my own prompting, and that of my Maker. I acknowledge no master in human form. I want you to understand, gentlemen, that I regard the rights of the poorest and weak of the laws system, just as much as I do those of the very rich and powerful. [That is the idea that he has moved, and that alone.]"

A PRUNER CONY.—Some sharp fellows recently undertook to get up a "corner" on prunes. They bought up all there were in bond in New York, and proposed to hold for a week. The demand for prunes did not manifest itself, the prunes became water, and the holders applied to the Secretary of the Treasury to have the duties remitted, on the ground that the goods had deteriorated through casualty.

WESTERVILLE, OHIO, situated at Westerville, Ohio, under the control of the United Brethren in Christ, and which suffered so severely by fire some eighteen months ago, has arisen from its ashes, one of the most commodious and best appointed colleges in the State, and is rapidly approaching completion.
