For the Sabbath Recorder. AN OPINION OF THE MEANING OF THE PHRASE, "THE LAST DAYS." In trying to ascertain the meaning of any one, or collection of words, phrases, or sentences, it is not only necessary to look out the significance...

Now let us look at the New Testament idea of the subject. The passage Acts 2: 2, "Brethren, ye were all Jews, and ye were all circumcised, and ye were all under the law..."

After giving the Hebrew, Barnes remarks on the phrase, "the last days," "In the 'last days,' in the time to come. This is an expression that often occurs in the Old Testament. It does not itself refer to any particular period, and especially not, as we have seen, to the end of the world."

CHRISTIAN'S HOLIDAY. Mrs. Norton was tired out with the many cares of her city home; and the doctor said unless she took a holiday, she was likely to have a severe nervous fever.

THE PEACE OF GOD. "The sun is very hot on this side of the boat," said a portly gentleman, who, with two ladies, was standing on the deck of a large steamer.

of comfort?" Taking his silence for consent, she opened the little Bible which was the daily companion of her excursions, and pointed to the blessed assurance, "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him; For he knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust."

When Mrs. Norton returned from her bathing off the beach to which she had just returned, she found her seat in the boat for home, and she saw that his face was drenched with tears. After this, she daily left with him the little book while taking her bath, and received it from him in silence, with many a tender prayer to God on his behalf.

On the last morning of her stay at P—, Mrs. Norton took to the same fisherman a new Bible—her hearing gift. "That was her joy to hear him say, as he grasped her extended hand in thanks, 'I too have found comfort in this book, for I have found a Saviour, and can say I love Him, and love His people; and it is you, ma'am, who have helped me to all this. God bless you, God bless you!'"

WHAT IT IS TO PRAY. To pray is first of all to put the understanding in motion, and to direct it upon the highest object to which the mind is capable of reaching—the infinite God. In our private prayers, as in our public liturgies, we generally preface the petition itself by naming one or more of his attributes—Almighty and everlasting God!

Next, to pray is to put the affections in motion; it is to open the heart. The object of prayer is the attainment of a blessing, and where prayer is at once real and prolonged, the demands which it makes upon our power of concentrating desire, examination into a specific and continuous act, are very considerable in number.

can be neither flower nor fruit. The soul cannot safely bear much sunshine till it is rooted in God. Till then it must have shadow, or be wasted and withered. Let me then lift my thoughts constantly to the divine realm, the summer land of the soul, for help and guidance. Let me make God my own, and then all that He possesses will be mine also. —Life of John Randolph of Roanoke, pp. 87-8.

INSPIRATION. The best inspiration for work at home is God's work. This dignifies at once the labor, and raises it, mountain high above the uncertainty, the changes of common life. Fully saturated with "His knowledge, all difficulties are solved over as unworthy of notice. God's work—and can it fail?"

PRAYING AND WATCHING. Is it not sad that we should think it wonderful for God to hear prayer? Much better faith was that of a little boy in one of the schools in Edinburgh, who had attended a prayer-meeting, and at the last said to his teacher, who conducted it, "Teacher, I wish to be a Christian, and to get to read the Bible, she never reads it."

HOW TO GET WARM HEARTS. In a letter accompanying a box to the Home, this idea is brought out; that if the articles sent were of no further use, they had already accomplished a good work in warming the hearts of those who had prepared them.
