The Sabbath Recorder. Alfred Centre, N. Y., Fifth-day, April 17. REV. N. V. HULL, D. D., - EDITOR.

KATA MIAN SABBATON. ROCKVILLE, March 28th, 1879. To the Editor of the Sabbath Recorder:

nomination, differ from me as well in relation to the importance of the rendering as what that rendering should be. That is their right. I only ask a respectful hearing, then "let every one be fully persuaded in his own mind."

and most elaborate arguments in favor of the divinely sanctified day. J. K. ISSAS. Above will be found two more letters from Bro. Irish, which, for their excellent and earnest spirit will commend themselves to all our readers.

DR. A. G. PALMER ON THE SABBATH. We take the following lines from the Christian Secretary, the State organ of the Baptist denomination, published at Hartford, Conn. On reading this poetry, we became interested to see how the Doctor, a natural poet, would succeed in "riding two horses," if we may so speak.

DEATH OF DEAN NATHAN LANZBEAR. Died, in Alfred, N. Y., April 8th, 1879, DEAN NATHAN LANZBEAR, aged 87 years and 7 months. In 1815, he came from Berlin, N. Y., to Alfred, where he commenced to make him a home.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.—A good deal of interest has been excited as to just what the unpardonable sin is. We frequently see the question raised by correspondents in our exchanges. Our own mind has been tolerably well settled on the subject, but of late new light has been shed upon the question. The sin, then, that hath no forgiveness is for certain the Members of the Legislature of Pennsylvania to vote for those that State observing the seventh day of the week to be relieved from the operation of the law of 1794.

MEMORIAL. We welcome the poetry below to our columns, and trust this contribution will not be the last we shall receive from our long-loved brother and friend: In Memoriam of William O. Kenyon. I knew him well in boyhood's earlier days, As in our social circles sometimes seen, A lad of beautiful, unassuming mien, Obliging, kind, and genial in his ways; But even then, the fever of desire For something better than the humble place He filled, flushed with a manly glow his face.

SUNDAY CONVENTION. Arrangements are being made for a convention at Springfield, Mass., to consider, and if possible, awaken the Christian public to a deeper interest in the Sabbath. This is well. But this is only one of many means which should be vigorously employed to rescue the Sabbath from the widespread desecration to which it is subjected by a restless and avicious people.

SUNDAY. It seems to be the prevailing opinion that Jesus was crucified on the first day of the week, and that on that day he constituted himself God as God comes into the world; that he died on the first day of the week, and that he rose again on the first day of the week, and that he ascended into heaven on the first day of the week, and that he will descend again on the first day of the week, and that he will judge the world on the first day of the week, and that he will reign forever on the first day of the week.
