

DECEITFULNESS OF APPEARANCES.

A Michigan temperance advocate recently stated in a speech that he watched the doors of a saloon in a certain village, for an hour one day, and saw thirty-one men go and come. He therefore assumed that thirty-one drinks had traded owners; and that the town was full of tipplers.

When you see a fat man rolling into a saloon on a hot day, your first thought is that he will fling his hat on the floor, fall into a chair, and call for claret with ice in it, and you wrong him. He simply enters the saloon to see if coal will be any higher if he waits another month before buying.

You see a couple of lawyers enter a saloon, and your impression is that they are going to shake dice for the drinks. Nothing could be more erroneous. They are simply going in to consult a State map to decide a bet that Fishkill is in Bass county.

An insurance agent is encountered as he comes out of a saloon wiping his mouth on the back of his hand. The public at once jumps to the conclusion that he has been struggling with a brandy mash.

A young man in this city lost his situation in a bank, because he was seen coming out of a saloon, and was heard to say, "All that cools me off!" Instead of dying of a broken heart, as some clerks would, this young man produced proof that he went to the saloon to put some old beer tumblers for his wife to buy out jelly in, and as he came out, the cool breeze struck him and caused him to remark as above.

The rest go to find out the exact shortage on the wheat crop, the fluctuations in English bank stocks, the news from the Panama canal, and various other things; and if they happen to wipe their mouths as they come out, it is simply an involuntary movement for which they can no more be held responsible than a yearling babe.

CHORAL INEPTITUDES.—REV. E. P. Tenney, the genial and witty president of Colorado College, was at one time the beloved pastor of the Congregational church in a sea-coast town in Massachusetts.

At the same church, a few weeks ago, the funeral of a prominent and highly respected citizen of the town, by the name of Knight, occurred, on which occasion, by a singular contretemps, the choir sang, as their first selection, the usually fitting hymn, "There will be no night there."

THE BEST SAVINGS BANK.—A saving woman at the head of a family is the very best savings bank established. The idea of saving is a pleasant one; and if the women imbibed it at once, they would cultivate it and adhere to it; and thus, when they are not aware of it, they would be laying the foundation of a competent security in a stormy time and shelter in a rainy.

MORE OF CHRIST.—Many seem to think that when they believe in Jesus, and are resting in his atoning death, they know all; but joy and peace are to be multiplied through a growing acquaintance with Christ.
