Resignation is an exalted Christian virtue. t is a plant that grows not up from nature's oil. It is a grace that must be cultivated like the rose-tree, that it may flourish and shed forth its sweet fragrance amid the passing scenes of ife. To possess resignation, calm and settled. inder all circumstances, is a high attainment. Yet it is attainable; and blessed are they who ive under its benign influences. It will shed a holy balm over the moral waste of life, and cheer us amid the darkest hours of our pilgrimbeholder, and the profound silence of terror age.

Life has its cares and its afflictions, its crosses nd its conflicts, its disappointments and its sacrifices. But in every scene of earth, resignation, like the strong and faithful anchor that holds the ship in safety till the storm is past, secures, its, possessor peace, and quietness, till the darkness and danger of the tempest are over, and the sunshine of tranquility and joy again beams upon us. Nothing is ever lost to the just by the exercise of this virtue; but it will secure to the anxious, the impotent, and heavy-laden, much joy, blessedness, and consolation. It will render our afflictions blessings : our crosses pleasure; sour disappointments unexpected, good; and our sacrifices either for

ILLUSTRATION OF THE EXISTENCE OF GOD.

"See here, I hold a Bible in my hand, and you see the cover, the letters, the words, but you do not see the writers, or the printer, the letter-founder, the ink-maker, the paper maker, or the binder. You never did, see them; you never will see them; and yet there is, not one the being of these men. I go farther; I affirm that you see the very souls of these men in seeing this book, and you feel yourself obliged to allowethat by the contrivance, design, memory, fancy, reason, which is here seen. In the same manner, if you see a picture, you judge there was a painter; if you see a house, you iudge there was a builder of it; and if you see judge there was a builder of it; and if you see one room contrived for this purpose and another for that, a door to enter, a window to admit for that, a door to enter, a window to admit light, a chimney to hold fire, you conclude said Polycarp, "with the fire which burns only

"Though Heaven afflict, I'll not repine; Each heart-felt comfort still is mine----Comforts that shall o'er death prevail, And journey with me through the vale."

HAPPY, INFLUENCE OF DANGERS.

At a meeting held in reference to the, estabishment of schools in the highlands and islands of Scotland, Dr. M'Leod related the following facts :---

A friend of mine happened to be in a boat, by which a poor simple-hearted man from St. Kilda was advancing, for the first time in his life, from his native rock to visit the world ; and as he advanced towards the island of Mull, a world in itself in the estimation of the poor St. Kilda man. the boatman commenced telling him the wonders he was so soon to see. They asked him about St. Kilda ; they questioned him, regarding all the peculiarities of that wonderful place. to be seen in Mull. He parried them off with great coolness and good humor; at, lengthing a person asked him if he ever heard of God, in St. Kilda. Immediately he became grave and collected. "To what land do you belong !" said he ; "describe it to me." "I," said the other, "come from a place very different from your barren rock; I come from the land of flood and field, the land of wheat and barley, where nature spreads her bounty in abundance and luxuriance before us." "Is that," said the St. Kilda man, " the kind of land that you come from? Ah, then, you may forget God, but a St. Kilda man never can. Elevated on his rock, ocean, he never can forget his God-he hangs such happiness as now fills her whole being with boat; and not a word more were asked him regarding his religion. Arvine.

POLYCARP'S DEATH.

When Polycarp, an ancient bishop of the Church at Smyrna, was brought to the tribunal. the proconsul asked him if he was Polycarp; to which he assented. The proconsul then began to exhort him, saying, "Have pity on thine own great age; swear by the fortune of Cesar; repent; say, take away the atheists," meaning the Christians. Polycarp, casting his eyes solemnly over the multitude, waving his hand to them, and looking up to heaven, said, Take of you who will think of disputing or denying away these atheists;" meaning the idolaters around him. The proconsul still urging him, and saying, "Swear, and I will release thee; re proach Christ," Polycarp said, "Eighty and six years have I served him, and he hath never wronged me : and how can I blaspheme my beasts," said the proconsul, "and will expose

FOREIGN NEWS

Since our last, two steamships have arrived from Liverpool, bringing news to May 20. The movements in Europe continue to be of an interesting character, although these arrivals bring nothing particularly startling.

In Ireland, the trials of O'Brien and Meagher were proceeding slowly. Mr. John Mitchell, the proprietor of the United Irishman, has been arrested and imprisoned for publishing articles supposed to endanger the Crown and Goyernment.

Lord Ashburton, formerly Mr. Alexander Baring, died on the 14th of May, at Longleat, Whitshire, at the seat of his grandson, the youthful Marquis of Bath. His Lordship died in his 75th year, surrounded by his family, and thus speedily followed to the grave his two brothers, Sir Thomas Baring, Bart., and Mr. Henry Baring, both of whose deaths were recorded a few weeks ago.

From France, we learn that a conspiracy to overthrow the Republic and establish Terrorism was discovered on the 15th of May, and signally defeated. The members of the various secret clubs got possession of the Chamber of Deputies for a while, declared the Chamber dissolved, and appointed a new Government. In due time, however, some 200 of the conspirators were arrested, and reduced to a condition which will not admit of their doing farther mischief. The allegiance of the roops of the line and National Guards is now confidently ers and duties of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church accompanies a notice in the Baltimore Sun of the recent meeting of the Assembly in that city :---

"The General Assembly is the highest judiciary of the Presbyterian Church. It represents in one body, all the particular churches of this denomination in the United States. This Church Court receives and issues all appeals and references which may be regularly brought before it from the inferior judicatories. It reviews the records of every synod, and approves or censures them; it gives its advice and instruction in all cases submitted to it in conformity with the Constitution of the Church. To the General Assembly also belongs the power of deciding in all controversies respecting doctrine and discipline; of reproving, warning, or bearing testimony against error in doctrine, or im morality in practice, in any Church, Presbytery, or Synod; of erecting new Synods when it may be judged necessary; of superintending the concerns of the whole Church. The General Assembly consists of an equal delegation of ministers and ruling elders from each Presbytery, in the following proportion, viz: Each Presbytery, consisting of not more than nine ministers, shall send one; for every additional nine ministers in any Presbytery, shall one

THE FOREIGN EVANGELICAL SOCIETY.

This Society held a meeting in Boston last week, at which Dr. Baird made a statement of its labors, and addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Bridell from Paris, Dr. E. Beecher, Rev. Mr. King from Dublin, and Rev. Mr. Kirk. The following report by the Boston Times, of Dr. Baird's remarks, will give our readers some idea of what the Society is

"During the nine years of this Society's existence, its field of operation, and hold on the sympathies of Christians, had been annually increasing, and it celebrated its present anniversary under peculiarly encouraging auspices. Its Committee had, during the year, aided the French Canadian Society, to a greater extent than in any previous year-had employed an efficient Missionary among the 60,000 French ciety was £43,956. In France, the chief field of operations, they sustain 80 laborers, colporteurs, and evangelists;

A battle was fought on the 6th of May, between the Piedmontese and the Austrians, under the walls of Verona. 659 persons were wounded, and about 100 killed. No important advantages were secured to either party. In Italy, the hostile armies are still approaching nearer each other; several slight engagements have taken place, in which neither side could justly claim a victory, and some decisive battle, whose result shall be an omen of good or ill to the Republicans of the Italian League, is anxiously awaited.

By advices received at Milan, it is learned that a battle had been fought between the Austrians and the Pontifical troops and Italian volunteers, between Cornuda and Molinetto. The Austrians lost four hundred men killed and five hundred prisoners, and many wounded. The body of their troops, to the number of 5,000 men, were surrounded, without having any artillery, at Cornuda and Molinetto, and are placed between two fires' by Generals Durando and Ferrari. Another account says that the battle lasted five hours, and that the Roman troops received a check.

read over the reports of proceedings in Congress last week. But we find them almost bar ren of interest to the general reader.

In the SENATE, the principal topic of discussion was the bill in favor of establishing a Terri- | making copper kettles, house boilers, &c., and torial Government in Oregon. Various amendments were proposed, with a view to the exclusion of slavery from the Territory which gave rise to considerable debate, but no decision was arrived at or approximated to. A joint resolution was introduced in the Senate to bring the stands a cedar slab, which, as the inscription present Session of Congress to a close on the first Monday in July, to meet again in an extra session on the first Monday in October next. The consideration of the question was made the order of the day for Monday next. Mr. Jefferson Davis, of Miss., presented in the Senate as an offering from the United States army to Congress, the American flag which was displayed from the halls of the Montezumas on the capture horses in England has been found to have diminof the City of Mexico.

In the House of Representatives, the bil in favor of the West Point Military Academy was passed. The bill in favor of suppressing used for transportation, and thus the grain and Indian hostilities in Oregon was under discussion, and furnished an occasion for several speeches in relation to slavery.

A STANGE STORY .- The Fulton County Republican announces the death of Mr. Norman Bemis, under very distressing circumstances. He was married on Thursday to Miss Fast, liv ing some few miles above Liverpool, on Duck Creek. On the night after the wedding, they rode down to Liverpool, to visit a friend and spend the night. Between 7 and 8 o'clock at night. Mr. Bemis left the house, to visit a connection of his, Mr. Brush, a few rods distant. In approaching Mr. Brush's house he observed a person in female attire, carrying two guns. The person retired as Mr. Bemis approached, and although saluted twice or thrice by Mr. Be-

The factory of Savage & Co., Berlin, Ct., was carried away by a freshet week before last. The accident was so sudden and unexpected, that the workmen engaged in the building were unable to escape, and six men were carried down the rapid stream among the broken fragments of the mill, but, strange to tell, not one of barbarous treatment well known to have been them was killed. The factory was used for. is a complete mass of ruins. Loss about $2,000. Some of the men were carried nearly a guarter of a mile in the rapid current, surrounded by water-wheels and floating timbers.

Notwithstanding it has been exposed to the weather for so long a period, it is still perfectly sound, and, if unmolested by desecrating hands, it will doubtless be standing when every man, woman, and child that now moves upon the earth shall have gone down to "darkness and the worm."

By a late census of England, the number of ished from 1,000,000 to 200,000 within the last ten years; in other words, the railroads have dispensed with the use of 800,000 horses, and these animals, as well as oxen, are now scarcely food of the 800,000 horses formerly consumed have been dispensed with, and the land used for the growth of hay and grass is devoted to the growth of grain alone for the supply of bread.

The process of shortening a river may appear something new under the sun, but it has actually been accomplished in the Mississippi, one of the its banks at Raccourci, where there was a conthe nearest point of the stream, cutting off twenty-eight miles in the length of the stream. The largest class of steamboats pass through up and down, without any difficulty. It is about four hundred yards wide, and the banks constantly caving.

Dr. Ure remarks in one of his recent works, mis, no answer was returned. #### THE SHOWER

In a valley that I know-Happy scene ! There are meadows sleeping low, There the fairest flowers blow, And the smoothest streamlets flow All serene; But the sweetest thing to see, If you ask the dripping tree, Or the harvest-hoping swain, Is the rain!

Ah, the dwellers of the town, How they sigh ! How ungratefully they frown When the cloud-king shakes his crown, And the pearls come pouring down From the sky! They deserve no charm at all When the sparkling jewels fall, And each moment of the shower Seems an hour!

Yet there's something very sweet In the sight, When the crystal currents meet In the dry and dusty street, In their might! While they seem to hold a talk With the stones along the walk, And remind them of the rule. To "keep cool."

But there in that quiet dell, Ever fair, Still the Lord doth all things well, When His clouds with blessings swell, And they break a brimming shell On the air; There the shower hath its charms Sweet and welcome to the farms. As they listen to its voice And rejoice!

In a ship where will carry me through to the 30th of the presa relation of mine was an officer, while the men were busy in fetching powder from below and making cartridges, a monkey on board took up a candle and ran down to the powder-room to see what they were about; but happily was overtaken just as he got to the lantern, and thrown out of the port-hole into the sea, with the lighted candle in his hand. Another lost his life by the spirit of mimicry; he had seen his master shaving his own face, and at the first opportunity, took up the razor to shave himself, and made shift to cut his throat. When the wild monkeys have escaped to the tops of the trees, the people below who want to catch them, show them the use of gloves, by putting them on and pulling them off repeatedly; and when the monkeys are supposed to have taken the hint, they leave plenty of gloves on the ground, having first lined them with pitch. The monkeys come down, put on the gloves, but cannot pull them off again, and when they are surprised, betaking themselves to the trees, as usual they slide backwards and are taken. A late neighbor of mine in the country, kept a monkey who took to riding his hogs, especial ly one of them, which he usually singled out as fittest for his use; and leaping upon its back, with the face towards his tail, he whipped it unmercifully, and drove it about till it could run no longer. The hogs lived under such continual terror, that when the monkey first came abroad in the morning, they used to set up a great cry at the sight of him. A well-known nobleman once had a wild horse whom nobody could ride. "I know not what your lordship can do with him," said one, " but set the monkey upon his back." So they put a pad on the horse, and set monkey upon it, with a switch in his hand, which he used upon the horse, and set ance." him into a furious kicking and galloping; but Pug kept his seat and exercised the switch. The horse lay down upon the ground; but, when he threw himself upon one side, the monkey was upon the other; he ran into a wood with him to brush him off; but if a bush or a tree occurred on one side, the monkey slipped to the other side, till at last the horse was so sickened and fatigued and broken spirited, that he ran home to the stable for protection. When the monkey was removed, a boy was put on him who managed the horse with ease, and he never gave any trouble afterwards. Lon. Mag.

In respect to government, the experience and observation of the Faculty have convinced them, that while they hold tl . reins firmly in their own hands, the object is best secured by teaching their pupils to govern themselves, and there-by calling into exercise the higher and nobler faculties of their nature, and promoting the refining and restraining elements of social influence.

The friends of the Institution have met with a success surpassing their most sanguine expectations, and hope by a laudable effort of all interested in its welfare, to make it a flourishing and respectable school. Correspondence may be ad-

M. CREMIEUX, THE ISRAELITE.

One of the ablest members of the Provi-Provisional Government of France, is the celebrated Jewish advocate, M. Cremieux. He was a member, in company with Isambert, of the great Anti-Slavery Convention held iu London in 1840. In his speech in that Convention, he vindicated the Jews from the charge of slavery, and cited the noble examples of the Essenes. who first declared slavery to be a crime. "In this assembly of Christians," said he, "I, a Jew, demand the complete abolition of servitude. My enthusiasm is equal to yours. Abolish slavery, proclaim equality; it is a noble and glorious mission. The glory of this mission belongs to two great nations, long divided by war, now uniting in the cause of the world's civilization. The words of England and France will be heard by the world. How sublimely have they been re-echod already from that very Republic of America where so many private interests oppose the emancipation of the blacks? How many generous hearts are there beating only for the sacred interests of humanity! See their representatives in this hall, uniting with France and England. Yes! we shall attain the object of our wishes. The holy alliance-the united will of France and England proclaiming the abolition of human slavery, who can resist? This is the happiest day of my existence; I shall dwell with delight on the recollection that I have been permitted to give utterance to my sentiments in an assembly like the present; and from this moment my life will acquire in my

'And how did she get over these stones, which lie between us and the bouse?'

'O sir, mother charged me to be careful that she did not fall, and so I put my hands under her arms, and lifted her up when she came to a stone, so that she need not hit her little foot against it.'

'That is right, George; and I want to tell you one thing. You see now how to understand foot against a stone. God charges his angels lieve it without any trouble.

trust in him? Surely he can; and there is not a child who may read this story, over whom he is not ready to give his holy angels charge.

ELEGANT STARVATION.

Of course these fearful privations increased till, some time after, they reached a climax. One day the hopeful economist returned home after dinner time, in a state of famishing hunger, and entreated his lovely housekeeper to order dinner-' Dinner,' she repeated ; 'there is not eyes more consistency and more real importa scrap in the house, nor an article left to procure one with.' 'Surely,' exclaimed the other, slapping his forehead in despair, 'something can be snatched from the wreck ! I have itwe can yet avert from our countenances the horrid stare of starvation. #### Apparatus.

The Apparatus of this Institution is sufficiently ample to illustrate successfully the fundamental principles of the diferent departments of Natural Science.

Notice.

The primary object of this Institution, is the qualification f School Teachers. Teachers' Classes are exercised in teaching, under the immediate supervision of their respective instructors, combining all the facilities of a Normal School. Model Classes will be formed at the commencement of each term. The Institution has sent out not less than one hand red and fifty teachers, annually, for the three past years; a number much larger than from any other in the State.

Academic Terms.

The Academic year for 1846-7 consists of three terms, as ollows:-

The First, commencing Tuesday, August 11th, 1846, and nding Thursday, November 19th, 1846.

The Second, commencing Tuesday, November 24th, 1846, and ending Thursday, March 4th, 1847.

The Third, commencing Tuesday, March 23d, 1847, and nding Thursday, July 1st, 1847.

As the classes are arranged at the commencement of the term, it is very desirable that students purposing to attend the Institution should then be present; and as the plan of instruction laid out for each class will require the entire term for its completion, it is of the utmost importance that students should continue till the close of the term; and, accordingly, no student will be admitted for any length of time less than a term, extraordinaries excepted.

Students prepared to enter classes already in operation, can be admitted at any time in the term.
