Reverently, tenderly, scatter the flowers. Beauty should honor the brave-Earth like a mother, her mantle of green Folds o'er the breast of each sleeper serene. Daisies have bloomed o'er these brothers of ours Since they were laid in the grave.

Patiently, lovingly, year after year Hallow the turf o'er them pressed. Storms in their fury above them have beat, Winter has heaped her white snows at their feet, Let the glad spring of refreshing appear, To brighten the place of their rest.

Gratefully, tearfully tell how they wrought, Speak of the goal they have won—
Worthy is he of the chaplet and crown
Who for another his life hath lain down— Ours is the recompense victory brought, Peace when the battle was done.

Solemnly, earnestly, over them plight Fealty to country anew, Nearer and dearer to manhood and youth Make the old virtues of honor and truth, Crown him the hero was dares to do right, Dares to be faithful and true.

Silently, certainly, thus shall the hour Lessons of duty impart— Peace bath her triumphs still hard to attain, Brief is the respite from traffic and gain-Sorrow and love with beneficent power Wait for each reverent heart.

MEMORIAL SERMON.

Preached in the First Alfred Church, by the pastor, Rev. W. G. Titsworth, Sabbath-day, May 24, 1884, by request of the B. Frank Maxson Post, G. A. R.

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.'

THE MISSION SPIRIT.

BY MRS. ANNA A. PRESTON.

In quaint Aramaic legend it is told How Jesus scorned the rich Jews with their gold Saying, "Behold thy brethren, Abraham's sons, Among them many naked, hungry ones, While of much goods thy house is full alway. What goeth out therefrom? Ah, grievous day! There goeth naught at all! Oh list to me: Look ye upon the poor in charity, Else here ye'll have no joy, no hope above, For thou thy neighbor as thyself shalt love."

A woman old was resting by the way Where Jesus taught the rich men on that day. And looking up into His regal face Received a bounteous shower of heavenly grace, 'It is the Lord," she said with dropping tears, "For Him I've looked these many weary years. Strange that I found Him when on duty's quest; How gladly would I follow with the rest. I must not even wait to wash His feet, This I can do-his gracious words repeat."

Toward Arimathea she hastened on her way, Meeting full soon a man in grand array, Chariots and servants on some mission bent. She paused, and looking up, her garments rent, And cried in trembling voice, "Who goeth out To feed the hungry ones?" In wondering doubt Did Joseph stop and said in kindly tones, "Woman, what troubleth? Why these piteous

I'll listen to His voice, and Him defend, And if there comes a time I Him can serve, I will be strong, my 'legiance shall not swerve."

Her words were blessed. Joy filled her aged heart; In work for Christ she had a blessed part.

Again the work was blessed when on that day In Joseph's tomb the mangled Saviour lay. That Saviour gave the Mission Spirit birth, And with His friends it dwells upon the earth.

Only the yester eve a woman found In some good paper on its weekly round, The wants set forth of those in our dear land Who need, through Christ, a reaching, helping

She sobbed aloud, "Oh, Father! hear my cry, For neither strength nor youth nor gold have I." You can tell others!" her rich neighbor said, Who had come in with gentle, noiseless tread, "I have the gold, your power has stirred a will Within my heart that lay quite cold and still. To all these calls my interest you have won, Now pray that I unfaltering may go on, And do for others in our nation's need, That to the cross I may poor sinners lead, Who shall lead others until all are reached, And every creature hears the Gospel preached.'

Then shall the tender Mission Spirit rest When it is welcomed in each Christian breast. -Christian Secretary.

THE ALFRED CENTRE MISSION BAND.

Perhaps you will be interested to know the results of our Young People's Mission Band during the last quarter. The new constitution providing for an entirely different plan of work has been successfully carried out. The Band has met upon the 1st and 3d Sunday evenings of each month. The sessions have consisted of religious exercises, readings of missionary work or the experience of some missionary. Occasionally a story of heathen customs or a scene in real life among the heathen was added to the exercises. At each session of the Band "The Star of Progress" was read by one of the six editors chosen from the Band. Excellent music appropriate for such meetings was well rendered by the Band choir at all the sessions. An address, recitation or missionary concert was occasionally introduced to give variety to the sessions. At each session a penny collection was taken in addition to the quarterly due of 10 cents that each member pledges to give. At the close of the quarter a public concert was given in the church consisting of literary exercises connected in some way with China; as the Band had decided to spend the funds raised during the quarter for the Shanghai Boarding Boarding School. During the quarter $20 41 was raised. Much valuable information was gained in regard to missions, and there is a growing sense of individual responsibility in helping to increase and sustain missions. The interest and enthusiasm of the members of the Band increased.

> Yours fraternally, PERIE FITZ RANDOLPH.

NEW SWEDEN, Me., May 6, 1884. The little church here, constituted with thirteen members, as I said before, has increased to thirty, and there is prospect of more additions. The first Sabbath of May we commemorated the sufferings and death of our Lord; it was a blessed Sabbath meet-

THE CHICAGO MISSION SCHOOL.

Our Mission School entertainment was held on the evening of April 24th, in the Kindergarten room of the Pacific Garden Mission. It consisted almost entirely of songs, dialogues and declamations by the children of the school. No refreshments were furnished. The attendance of the parents and friends of the children was larger than on any previous occasion, and the interest manifested by them at every good effort of the children was very hearty. These people were our delighted guests, rejoicing all this completed in the space of four years, with us at the sparkling wit manifest in the recital of their little parts, and rapturous with applause as the children sang out, in clear notes, their little songs, including those of praise to God and the Redeemer. Nearly fifty scholars received presents for perfect directions, places the mission once more in attendance or learning the golden texts. These presents cost, at wholesale, $35. If any in carrying the gospel directly to the peo one doubts the value of these prizes, in such | ple. a work as ours, they have only to witness the joy and enthusiasm of the children in receiving them to have them removed. One little girl earned a small trunk, which she so loved that she slept with it on her bed, but now contents herself with sleeping with the key under her pillow. The average attendance for April was 783, and I have no doubt that the average for February and March were larger, but I have not the figures at hand. The two Sabbaths of this quarter average eighty children. We have not teachers enough to do justice to so large a school, and are offering no prizes this quarter, only a promise of a picnic in July. It seems now that it will be difficult to keep the school small enough this quarter, so we can take care of it. IRA J. ORDWAY.

FROM DR. SWINNEY.

SHANGHAI, China, March 28, 1884. On first coming to the Mission my time was occupied in getting settled and in adapting myself to my new surroundings; also in receiving the calls from the many missionaries in and about Shanghai, giving me a hearty welcome to mission work The church appointed a business meeting in China. After the holidays I commenced my studies in the language, and with the exception of the vacation during the Chi sorbing work. The many patients already coming to me, and the homes I have entered, have been beneficial in giving me an insight into their character and modes of thinking and living, as well as preventing a too continuous application in the study of the language, which is a common fault, and Seldom a day passes as I look out upon the two school buildings, unoccupied excepting two rooms used by the day school, that I do not think that their standing in silent readiness, is a most potent appeal for the enlargement and prosecution of the mission work in this particular direction. In other missions we see the good results where many or ences in thought and views. Each day as I enter more and more into the plans of the mission, and realize the abundance of work that is pressing upon our hands, I rejoice that ever I was led to come to this field.

The mission building and those of the two schools are put up in a substantial way and of good material, so much so that I frequently hear business men and many missionaries say that these are better built than any mission buildings in Shanghai; some missions being obliged to take their dwell ings down in a short time, from imperfectly filled contracts. These are standing monuments of Mr. Davis' indefatigable labor; and in a strange land and language, and with inefficient and cunning workmen and requiring his constant presence and watchcare. This building up of the waste places unoccupied for a time, and enlargement in other an excellent condition for aggressive work occasionally to encourage us, last First-day being one to give joy to the various missionaries in this region. The request had been made that all the native Christians of the different denominations in and about Shanghai, gather in the union chapel in the Settlement. As this was the first attempt of the kind ever made, the numbers were truly surprising, the house being densely crowded with native members, very many being obliged to go away from the door without effecting an entrance. The services were all in Chinese. Along with the glad songs of praise to Jesus was noticed the joy on their faces, attesting the happiness within. The Rev. Mr. Muirhead spoke first, who after thirty-seven years here as a missionary now goes to his home in Enland to labor a year or eighteen months among the churches, and then hopes to return to China and spend the remainder of his days in this his life work. He spoke of the perplexities and disappointments of his early years of labor with scarcely a convert, and contrasted them strongly with the joy of the various missions to-day in the vast number of Christian converts crowding the church on this occasion. His exhortations were powerful to them, to continue in the love of God and he also expressed the desire that many, very many more may be added to their number, of those who shall believe in the Saviour of the world. He was followed by the Rev. Mr. Moule and then by two native preachers.

There are cheering incidents that occur

Few can understand the pleasure of such an occasion to those who are just beginning in the work, when seeing the fruits of former laborers, yet if I should repeat a passage in It is a pleasure to find the mission in so my review lesson with my teacher to-day that is applicable you might catch a glimpse ye are entered into their labors." On reaching Nanziang, I found the missionary just able to sit up after an attack of the measles, the mother in a critical condition, and the little child very ill indeed with the measles. The only other foreign family in all that densely crowded town, was composed of two sisters, the elder having charge of a boarding school of fifty girls, the younger the boys' boarding school. One of these sisters was danger. ously ill with the measles, while the other had to care for the two schools, several pupils sick with the measles, and the sick sister. I returned after two days and nights leaving them all much better and advancing favorably in their recovery.

Before leaving I was taken through the schools and enjoyed the rich pleasure of noting the prosperity of the mission in this particular. Fifty girls clean and happy and studying their lessons or, as some were. gathered in the sewing room learning to use their needle, was a pleasant sight. One might almost envy these ladies in their noble work. I also had a few minutes to visit a celebrated temple in the place, but a description of all I saw there would increase those lines to an undue length.

But I can not close without speaking of Erlo about whom I have heard so much from my childhood, and for whom so many earnest prayers have been offered of late. As Mr. Davis has probably written you, he has come back to his God and an upright life. He is a man of ability and power, and one need not wonder at the interest of our little church here, on hearing his voice once more among them. As he poured forth his confessions and his desire for a closer walk with God, perfect stillness reigned throughout the room, broken only by the loud cannonading of the lengthened salute then being given to one of the two viceroys who stand next to the Emperor, "Viceroy Tsu Tsong Dong," then entering Shanghai. We scarcely noticed the loud jarring of the windows, so great was our interest within; and a sweeter sound to us than the applause of the crowd was it, to hear his voice in sorrow and

I remember vividly the agonizing prayers offered for him at Conference in Adams Centre; and all will truly rejoice no doubt and thank our heavenly Father that Erlohas heard and heeded the still small voice, and returned we hope to make a faithful servant in his Master's cause.

ASTOUNDING IF TRUE.

In their zeal to recover the territory and the influence once possessed by the French and the Romish Church in this country, especially in New England, the French-Canadians have been sending large colonies to all the Eastern States. They come to us with the determination of not intermarrying with our people; of not learning our language, except as it may be needful to carry on their worldly affairs; of not becoming citizens of the United States; and of not adopting our manners and customs, much less our Protestant faith. They come as religious propagandists to re-establish the Romish Church as firmly on the south side as on the north side of the St. Lawrence, and as thoroughly in the Valley of the Connecticut as in that of the St. Maurice. Their plan is to drive out the Yankee element, and take full possession of their lands, factories and homes. L'Etendard

"For the time being, let Canadians take possession of the soil, and take root therein (a goodly number have already done so, the Acadians for instance), and the future is secured for them. The rest of the Yankees will emigrate to the west; the setting sun is drawing them away."

"The State of Maine is well adapted for agriculture. The grearer part was detached from New France; another part was afterwards transferred to the Americans by the imbicile Ashburton, and it ought to be returned to the Canadians, giving us good seaports open all the year round. We shall have to come to that; Annex to Canada the Northeastern part of the States."

At first sight this looks chimerical enough, but when we think of the number of these French-Canadians already in Maine, and the quiet but persevering way in which they work, stranger things have happened than that the home of the Puritans should become the property of the adherents of the Pope of Rome. It is asserted by the newspaper already quoted that there are 50,000 Canadian-Catholics to day in Maine.

"We are in a position to prove that our Canadian population of Maine exceeds 50,000. The parishes of Mawaska near River St. Jean contain more than 12,000 Canadians and Acadians. Biddeford and Lewiston each have 6,000: Waterville, 3,000; Saccarappa and Brunswick, each 1,500. There are numbers of Canadian families at Farmington, Bangor, Bradley, Skowhegan, Orono, Oldtown, Dexter, Canton, Springvale, Augusta, and in many other centers."

MORAL EDUCATION.

In the forty-seventh annual report of the Massachusetts Board of Education we find the following on this subject, from the Secretary of the Board:

How shall the teacher train his pupils to He must have the reputation and the character of a truthful man; truthful not only in his speech, but in all the relations he holds to those under his care. Children are

The Standard, of Chicago says: "We are to have the Rugby school reproduced-or, at least, attempted to be—in this country. The 'Rugby School Company' has been organized in Mr. Hughes' Tennessee colony, and is about to establish an institution for boys, for the central Southern States of the Union, which is to be connected with the University of the South, at Sewanee, although located at Rugby. The circular announces that the governing body of the school will consist of a Visitor and a Council of Twelve, of whom four will be Englishmen, four Americans, and four Rugbians, of either nationality. The teaching body will consist of a head-master and various assistants. The bishop of Tennessee will be visitor, ex-officio, and Mr. Thomas Hughes will be one of the council. And for head master Thomas Arnold Wise, B. A., late scholar of Lincoln College, Oxford, and of Rugby School, has been chosen."

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

The reaction against the examination mania has fully set in. The danger now is that we shall be carried too far in the opposite direction. Chicago has, for three years past, promoted pupils to the high schools upon the recommendation of the principals of the ward schools. The superintendent conducts a supplementary examination of those not recommended by the principals At the last examination of this kind eighteen were examined, and nine passed. And now comes Cleveland. At a recent meeting of the Board, a resolution was introduced which looks in the direction of the abolition of examinations, and the basing of promotion on the daily record of the pupils. Thus the pendulum swings.—Ohio Ed. Monthly.

CLIPPINGS.

The trustees of Earlham College, at Richmond. Ind., have decided to erect a new building, to cost $45,000, and elect three new professors. This is the leading college of the Society of Friends in the West.

Robert College, Constantinople, has 211 students this year, of whom 49 are in the preparatory department. Of the 162 in the college classes, 85 are Bulgarians, 63 are Armenians, 10 are Greeks, one is a Tunisian, one a Slavonian, one a Hebrew, and one an Englishman.

The Slater fund, of $1,000,000, for educating the colored people of the South, has been fortunately invested, and is yielding a handsome income of $60,000, the distribution of which is in the hands of Dr. A. S. Haygood, President of the College at Oxford, Ga. Three thousand dollars have been set aside for educating pupils who were specially bright, and Mr. Slater, the donor, expresses himself as highly pleased with the progress that has been made so far in the work of the fund.

"Gifts to Colleges and Universities," published in the Bay State Monthly, it is stated that the amount contributed to college and university education in the United States been less than $50,000,000.

Since the above was written, the mail brings the following letter, which is so full of Christian candor, that we subjoin it for the information of the readers of the RE-EDITOR OUTLOOK.

WASHINGTON, 202 Fifth St., S. E., May 5, 1884. Editors of Outlook: Gentlemen,—While not prepared to adopt the views of the Outlook, I am, nevertheless, pleased with the paper. Before reading the Outlook I looked upon the Seventh-day Baptists as a very small sect of well-meaning, good, but ignorant people, for I had never met one. The scholarly little Outlook satisfies me that they are not a very ignorant people, and its Christian charity and freedom from bigotry is delightful. I am an Episcopalian from conviction, that it is the mode of church government established by the apostles under inspiration. Should I ever become convinced that you are right about the Sabbath, I would still feel it to be my duty to stay in the Church and obey her laws while laboring to change those laws. My influence is, however, very small. I am only a deacon, which gives me the title of Reverend, though I sometimes wish that it did not, as permanent deacons generally follow secular business. I am a sacramentarian (not extreme), and believe that immersion was generally practiced in the ancient church, as it has been perpetuated in the Greek and other Eastern branches of the church where infants are immersed: a practice enjoined in the English Prayer Book, but not in the American. I enclose you the price of this years sub-

A FEW weeks more will bring us to the middle of Volume 40 of the SABBATH RE-CORDER. Our terms are $2 a year in advance, with the privilege of adding 50 cents after six months. Will not our Local Agents look over their lists, and forward back dues as speedily as possible, and so do us, and our subscribers a valuable service.

An exchange gives this sensible advice: Talk to your children about good people; tell them of their generous plans and selfsacrificing deeds not those who lived a thousand years ago, but those who live now. There are plenty of them, men and women of whom the unthinking world is not worthy. There will be enough hands pointing to the other side of the picture, with all its sin and corruption, without yours. Bring the sweet roses and pure lilies into your home, and leave the poison ivy outside.

In the Methodist General Conference, recently held, it was decided that while women might be licensed to preach and exhort, they should not receive full ordination, with the privilege of administering the ordinances. We have never been over-enthusiastic on the subject of woman's preaching, but we see no reason, arising either from Scripture teaching or from common sense, why a woman should not preach, if she desires to, and has the necessary qualification of mind and heart. And it seems to us the most unreasonable assumption, after acknowledging her right to "preach and exhort," to deny her the full prerogative of an ordained minister.

A RECENT magazine article on "The Training of Parents," is suggestive of the changes which have taken place in domestic relations since some of us were children. We do not advocate a return to the rod in the hands of parents, as the only remedy for lawlessness and disobedience on the part of children; but we do insist that parents are the divinely constituted heads of families, and that by some means this headship should be recognized, the authority which belongs to it respected, and reverent obedience to it rendered. That these happy results may be realized, parents must prove themselves worthy to exercise the authority thus reposed in them. Being able, by the force of real character, to command the love and reverence of their children, they will, as a rule, have little difficulty in commanding their outward conduct. Parents may be more largely responsible for the irreverence and disobedience of their children than they think.

THE editorial published this week, on the importance of the Associations, was written and published nearly one year ago, just after the Associations had been held. We reprint it now in the hope that it may have some influence in determining the size and character of the sessions so soon to be held. We wish that all the churches of the denomination might be represented by delegates at the coming sessions of their respective Associations, and that through these delegates there might be sent back to all these churches such a stimulus to work as would be felt all through the coming year.

DO OUR ASSOCIATIONS PAY?

This question is asked by some who think that the Associations are of but little real value to our denominational work. Some of the reasons assigned for this opinion are:

1. The Associations have no executive functions. That is, they have no authority to plan and no means for carrying on any seldom disappointed. real work. Our missionary work is in the hands of the Missionary Society, which con- jections raised against the holding of the periods of the creation.

Our Associations do pay. As the work by the proper authorities in our schools, and of our several Societies enlarge on our by the general care and work of the Education Society. These several societies, having the care of the various departments of our denominational work, hold their Annual Sessions in September in connection with the General Conference. At these annual sessions they review the work of the year, plan for the year to come, and again commit your actions follow the guidance of your their work to their respective Boards. At judgment, and if between them both you go this time also the Trustees of the Memorial down the Falls of Niagara, go! It is the Fund, the Sabbath School Board, and other committees report their year's work to the General Conference, so that there seems to be some reason for the inquiry, "What use

2. The Associations are somewhat expen-1884. Toronto is a beautiful city, and no sive. Several hundred dol. ars are expended more delightful time for visiting it could be every year by those who attend them, for traveling fees. And it is suggested that the same amount of money would do more good in the hands of some one or more of our societies, and expended in the regular line of work of these societies.

> 3. A third objection sometimes urged against the Associations is the fact that, among others, the pastors are expected to attend, and as the meetings continue over the Sabbath, this leaves those who remain at home without the regular preaching service, unless some one else, usually a Firstday man, is called to fill the vacant pulpit.

Amitting that there is some force in the above objections, especially in the first, we still think we can not afford to dispense with the Associations. They fill a place which nothing else can fill, and do a kind of work which nothing else can do so well.

1. They are accessible to a far greater number of our people than the Anniversaries of the Societies and the meetings of the General Conference can be. In the regular course these latter meetings can be held with in the bounds of any one Association no oftener than once in five years. If a departure is made from the regular course, bringing the Anniversaries to one Association oftener than that, it must be at the expense of another Association. Then, again, the Conference and Anniversaries can only go to the larger churches. The Associations seem necessary, therefore, in order to bring, as nearly as possible, some annual gathering of our neople to the door of all our churches.

DIFFFRENCES OF OPINION.

Years ago there lived in our native town an old lady who said, when speaking of the various religious views among the people, 'I don't see why people can't see alike; for my part, I can." Probably each one of us thinks that for his part he "sees alike" on most points, at least for the time being; but when two or more look together, we find ourselves, sometimes to our surprise, seeing quite unlike.

There are those who think that some of our general missionaries receive too large salaries compared with those paid to pastors. Among the considerations touching this quesmoral and its ceremonial parts, as we call | tion are these: Men as strong, physically and them, was a revelation of God's holiness, intellectually, as any of our pastors are needed for this work; it must be a more severe and trying kind of work, as a rule, than that of the pastorate; and many pastors receive annual donations, have other perquisites, and do more or less preaching for Firstand expansion in the Christian system, or day churches, by which their income is considerably increased; while the general mis sionary, having no right to such things, must Paul teaches, in the third chapter of 2 depend almost solely upon the salary he re-

The Church consists of six brothers and five sisters, and we trust this number will soon be augmented. We were grateful for the presence of Bro. ### TO SUNSET LANDS-NO. 26.

MONTEREY.

One bright day in May, 1770, a company of Spanish soldiers under Governor Portala, and a Jesuit priest, Father Crespi, arrived at the "Point of Pines," at the southern extremity of the bay of Monterey, from San Diego, whence they had come overland, and welcomed the good ship San Antonio bearing Father Junipero, the founder of the Cailfornia missions. It was one hundred and sixty-seven years since Viscayno and his Carmelite monks had looked upon that scene, and we have no knowledge that any one had come between. But now a mission and a city were started. The mission was that of San California, and the city, that of Monterey. Some think that it is not wise to have Under Spanish rule Monterey became the others believe it to be one of the wisest of Jones landed and raised the United States ceded by Mexico.

We next came to China Town, where live a colony of Chinese, who do a large business in catching and drying fish.

Beyond China Town is "Pacific Grove Retreat," the Chautaugua of California. . It is a fine park of pine trees extending down to the shore, full of pleasant cottages, and with mineral springs and sea baths, certainly combines more desirable things than any other camp meeting grounds in the land. The company who own the Hotel del Monte also own 7,700 acres of land on this point, and have laid out and macadamized ten miles of road through it, intending to make it all into one great park. Driving through it, the grand old trees, the ferns by the wayside, the rolling and the tumbling surf seen through the foliage, with the calm, sail-less ocean in the distance, make a picture to be remembered. "Seal Rock," and "Pellican Rock," and "Moss beach" are attractive points. The brilliant hues of the waves, as they dash upon the beach are a wonder and a delight. Crystals of every shade, sapphire, topaz, opal pearls and emeralds jump and dance in profusion, before the eye as the waves splash and splinter themselves upon the rocks.

come to the pass that the North has almost been expected to apologize for the part it South will yet bless the day of her defeat took in humiliating the South. Threats have been openly made that we are to have the Constitution as it was: that is, as it was before the adoption of the amendments that were made to it during the war, which means they propose to have us acknowledge that we did wrong in prosecuting the war, and shall give up the results of it. One Southern representative has threatened that they would yet wipe out all the war legislation. All of this means that the North is to confess that it was wrong in the war and the South was right. But it is our duty to declare and teach that the men whose graves are to be decorated on Memorial Day, who died in the war to prevent the success of the secession movement, died in a cause with right on its side; and the men who died in the Rebel army died in a cause with wrong on its side, though they fought honestly and fearlessly and died bravely. We must declare that the war was not a failure, except for the South, and the victory must not be made a barren one because we tamely give up the results of it. The war decided that State rights and human slavery are not to be tolerated in this country, and we mean that what it decided shall remain as it was then decided. We will still call the war "The war of the Rebellion," and will not disgrace our dead or living soldiers, or those whose hearts have not yet ceased to ache for their dead, by apologizing for their part in it.

IV. But this day is to kindle no resentments, nor is it to keep alive sectional feelings or foster revenge. It is a day on which we can well afford to feel a hearty magnanimity towards those who lost their cause when ours triumphed. The results of the war decided that we shall be one people, and we will gladly do what we can that this unity may be hastened? may not be frustrated. Mothers and sons, wives and husbands, fathers and children, sisters and brothers were | pressed upon our attention. torn apart there as well as here. We lost our their graves; and they lost theirs in all the which many of them were led against their will. taken, brothers. the sins of a nation will be punished. I Tuesday, the 27th, at 4 P. M.

There is a power which will not allow ish edited by Semple & Colton, and was injustice and wrong against a weak and considered cheap at five dollars a year, or a downtrodden people to go unpunished. God will hear the cries of the weak and As we drove out of the town we passed the day of vengeance against the oppesser will come sooner or later. Whatever a nath the praise service appreciate the effort of to the querist. But Mr. C. has bought out a tion soweth, that shall it also reap. This whole nation was guilty for the crime of up to a higher degree of excellence, in which | hands are employed, in Norwich, Conn. pearance of whales in the bay, and then go bondage; we were guilty of a sin against humanity; and the punishment, when it came, was awfully commensurate with the sin. God is against oppression; he has spoken in unmistakable words all through history, his condemnation of it. The inexorable logic of events proves the certainty of a reckoning with every people who allow iniquity and injustice to be done to any of the family of mankind and especially the weak. It is a lesson which has a broad application. The law of compensations is a law of God. Where there is wrong permitted by a people against the weak, there is sure to follow the day of reward according as the works have been. This is a lesson which we of this generation should heed. If we are recreant to the trust of citizenship which is given into our hands; if we allow great evils to grow up under the fostering care of law, and destroy the innocent and weak; if we turn our backs upon the cause of good morals and purity in our land, we must be ready to submit to the penalty which the wrath of God is sure to send as the compensation for iniquity.

Finally, the memories of the war will come into many mind with Memorial Day. Some of you will live over again, in imagination, ts battles and the scenes where your comrades fell. The thoughts of some will be turned southward to nameless graves where lie the remains of some who were dear to us. All these are memories of years which we hope will never again return to our land. when brother will take the life of brother in civil war. But these died not in vain. They have saved the country for a better future than it could possibly have had with slavery within its limits; even to the future which our forefathers saw when they opposed the oppression of Great Britain, they have died in the cause of human rights and human freedom, and left us a heritage of blessing in a country which we hope no brother's hand will ever be lifted again to destroy. The At no distant day we hope it will be seen that the Plymouth New England idea of liberty has leavened the lump of Southern thought and feeling, instead of the Jamestown idea of liberty, and jealousy and hatred have given way to healthy emulation in the pursuits of peace. A wonderful future lies before this united country; a future of such prosperity as could not have come to it with human slavery within its borders, and in this future the South will be found abreast of the North in education, industry, morality, and wealth. A great work remains to be done, and it will be our duty and pleasure to help do it. Blessed is that people whose God is the Lord, whose laws are founded upon eternal justice and right; who love liberty and hate oppression and wrong; who are strong in loyalty to the principles upon which they are founded and are willing to die for the integrity of their government.

Although without a pastor, we are keeping up the appointments of the Church. Sab bath, May 10th, Brother T. L. Gardiner, of Shiloh, preached for us in the afternoon, and afterwards baptized two of our Sabbath school scholars. He also preached for us again the following Sabbath afternoon, after which those which had been baptized were received into church fellowship, and also one by letter, a convert to the Sabbath. Surely the Lord is with us, and we rejoice that even so small a number are willing to come out on the Lord's side; and our prayer is that more will follow in their footsteps soon. We are doing what we can to secure a pastor, but as yet have made no satisfactory arrangement to that end.

WESTERLY.

On Sabbath morning, May 17th, Rev. J. W. Morton, who for about a year and a half has very faithfully administered the Word to the Pawcatuck Church, preached his farewell discourse before leaving for his new field of labor at Chicago. His sermon was replete with facts and truths respecting the Christian warfare, and was based upon Eph. 6; 10-20. Six important things were necessary for the successful prosecution of this warfare, as follows:

1. The loins should be girt about with truth. Reference was made to the ancient mode of dress, the girdle being used to fasten the loose garment about the body, that the soldier should not be hampered in battle. Truth was essential for the Christian to apply in thus girdling himself for the strife.

2. The breastplate of righteousness. An important thing for the protection of the vitals, that the soldier should not be cut down by the enemy in his unrighteous work. The foe was to be met with righteousness, right doing and right living.

3. Shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. Christians are a marching people. Their sandals should be properly prepared to enable them to make the successful march.

4. The shield of faith. The shield was large enough to protect the whole body. Faith was the grand bulwark capable of warding off every assault of the enemy, thus being a perfect shield from all his darts.

5. The helmet of salvation. The helmet was a covering and protection to the head; a protection to the brain, the reasoning powers, the intellect.

6. The sword of the Spirit. Unlike the five previous things which were used merely for the defensive, this was to be used in the offensive. The Word of God was given us to wield mightily. The Christian warfare should be prosecuted vigorously by the presentation of God's Word, the dissemination of God's will to men.

Eld. Morton, in closing, made an earnest appeal to the Church, whose influence he considered very great in this community, to sustain and hold up the hands of their new pastor, by a consistent Christian life.

Rev. Andrew Carlson, a Swedish Sabbatarian minister of Rush Point, Chisago Co. Minn., stopped over last Sabbath and First day here, on his return from a trip to New Sweden, Maine, where he has labored under The friends of Dr. Maxson are pleased to the auspices of the Seventh-day Baptist Missionary Society, and has been successful in organizing a Seventh-day Baptist Church of thirty members. Following the sermon by Elc. Morton, Bro. Carlson, although not very fluent in speaking English, gave a short outline of his recent labors in Maine, expressing the conviction that there were some fifteen others who would yet unite with the newly-organized church.

This was the third trip the brother had made to the State of Maine, the last one only being under the auspices of the Missionary Board.

BUTTER.—Receipts for the week 31,649 packages, same week last year, 28,473; exports---. The receipts as enumerated above correspond with the actual number of packages of all sizes as delivered by all the steamboats and railroads coming into New York. The exports are taken by weight from the manifests of all outward-bound vessels, and the total weight exported for the week is divided by fifty, thus giving the exports as reckoned in 50 lb. packages. The market this week has failed to clear the receipts, which are in great part carried over unsold. There were some sales of fine goods for export at 19@20c. To-day fancy selected New York State Creamery had 201c. bid in pails, and 21c. in half firkin tubs. Western Iowa Creamery firsts were freely offered at 19@20c. NEW EVERY MORNING.

BY SUSAN COOLIDGE.

Every day is a fresh beginning, Every morn is the world made new You who are weary of sorrow and sinning, Here is a beautiful hope for you— A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over, The tasks are done, and the tears are shed, Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover: Yesterday's wounds, which smarted and bled, Are healed with the healing which night has shed.

Yesterday now is a part of forever, Bound up in a sheaf which God holds tight, With glad days and sad days and bad days which Shall visit us more with their bloom and their

Their fullness of sunshine, or sorrowful night.

Let them go, since we can not relieve them, Can not undo, and can not atone; God in his mercy receive, forgive them: Only the new days are our own; To-day is ours, and to day alone.

HYMNS.

Many hymns are precious, not merely from their inherent beauty and deep spirituality, but on account of the circumstances that inpired them. Take, for example, the hymn he first stanza of which reads thus:

"Jesus I my cross have taken, All to leave and follow thee; Naked, poor despised, forsaken, Thou from hence my all shall be. Perish every fond ambition All I've sought or hoped or known; Yet how rich is my condition— God and heaven are all my own."

This is sublime; but how much it adds to its impressiveness to know the fact that it was written by a lady, the daughter of a rich English nobleman, who had been disinherited and banished from home by her hardhearted father because she would not give up her Saviour.

The whole hymn is the expression of a clear aud strong faith and a sweet, unfaltering trust, and a blessed hope and certain assurance of the favor of God in this life and a final acceptance by our Redeemer and Lord in his heavenly kingdom.

The closing stanzas are very touching: "Soul, then know thy full salvation, Rise o'er sin and fear and care; Joy to find in every station Something still to do or bear. Think what spirit dwells within thee, Think what Father's smiles are thine: Think how Jesus died to win thee; Child of heaven, canst thou repine?

Haste thee on from grace to glory,
Armed by faith and winged by praver;
Heaven's eternal day before thee, God's own hand shall guide thee there. Soon shall end thy earthly mission, Soon shall close thy pilgrim days; Hope shall change to glad fruition, Fath to sight and prayer to praise."

A YOUNG GIRL'S CHARM. BY IDA HAZELTON.

There is nothing so charming in a young girl's character as piety. There are many beautiful girls, who are fine scholars, entertaining, bright and winsome, but if there is no moral element which stands out promi nently in the character, no high purpose to who turns away from the allurements of the theatres, and takes upon herself the name of "Christian," henceforth devoting all her talents to the service of Christ and his church,

"My church" is of first importance to the young girl who really loves Jesus. No attribute of her character is more lovely than her devotion to its services, and her eager desire to help in all its benevolent operations. To it she brings the zeal of her fresh young love for her Saviour, and in its pleasant Christian gatherings she finds use for all her talents of a social nature and her mental acquirements and accomplishments. Jesus and her church have need of them all.

Professor Phelps, of Andover, in Men and Books, has a happy word to say on this very topic. He writes: "One of our most accomplished American missionaries spent her life in Africa. Her education, her refinement, her tastes, her manners, would have graced and elevated any metropolitan society, yet her testimony was that she found use for them all in the Christianizing of savages. She was not conscious of one wasted gift. She had no regrets over useless acquisitions. Not a single accomplishment of her beautiful youth—her drawing, her painting, her music—ever lay idle. She was right in her judgment of herself and her life's work. It will bear the test of eternity, whatever this world may say of it."

Happy, therefore, is the young girl who gladly, and with perfect trust, gives away all that she hath to Jesus, and then receives from him in return the richest jewel a maid en may wear-a pure and an unselfish heart. -Morning Star.

A PRE-HISTORIC burial-ground has been discovered on the sc-called Hasenburg, near Buhla (Kreis Nordhausen, Germany). Two complete human skeletons, numerous bronze rings, and several rings made of amber were found. The Hasenburg is an isolated rock on which stood formerly a castle of the Emperor Henry IV; but the numerous pre-historic remains found in the neighborhood point to its having been an ancient place of worship. The objects recently found have been deposited in the museum of Nordhaus-

THE canal which is to connect the Gulf of Athens with the Lepanto is 7,600 meters in length, 8 metres in depth, and 2.35 metres in width. There are two dredgers employed on the work, each of which can excavate 5,000 cubic metres of material in a day of ten hours. The buckets of these machines have each a capacity of 750 litres, and a compound engine of 300 horse power raises 14 of these buckets every minute. M. de Lesseps, at a trial of one of these dredgers, was astonished at the quantity of work performed.

A RELIC has been recently discovered in Cedar county, Mo., supposed to have been a Mound Builders' idol. It is four feet long, in the shape of a lizzard, carved from slate, of artistic workmanship. Upon close examination, the idol is found to be made up of part of a dozen creatures—amphibia, carnivora, insects, reptiles, and fowls. The top of the head has the semblance of a flat bone plate, and is shaped like that of an eagle,

At the forthcoming Turin Exhibition a street railway will run from the Piazzo Carlo Felice to the principal entrance of the building. The motive power will be supplied by electric accumulators invented by Signor Nigra. The Nigra secondary batteries differ from those devised by M. Faure in having the lead arranged in hanks or festoons of wire and not in plates. At a trial with a Shuckert dynamo-electric machine and thirty accumulators weighing twenty-two pounds each M. Nigra was able to run a four-wheeled car carrying three persons at a speed of twelve and a half miles

FLEXIBLE PHOTOGRAPHIC PLATES.—Photographers, both amateur and professional, have long wanted some thoroughly efficient substitute for glass as a support for dry plate films, and a few attempts have been made to supply the want with more or less of success. The following method has been recently patented in this country on behalf of Messrs. Fickeissen & Becker, of Villingen, Baden. The plates or surfaces can be prepared from paper, cloth, or other suitable fabric or material, but by preference from white paper containing very little size and not much grain. This paper is first extended on a frame or other arrangement, according to the size of the plate or surface which is desired. After it is dry the surface is covered in any convenient manner with a fine varnish or composition, such as copal varnish, for the purpose of rendering the fabric transparent; it is then dried, and after it is quite dry the surface is rendered smooth by the application of powdered pumice stone or other ed, if necessary, two or three times until the surface or plate is smooth or transparent. The surface so prepared is then covered on one or both sides with a solution of gelatine, isinglass, or other substance possessing similar properties, and allowed to dry. The surface so prepared may, if desired, be further treated with a preparation of ox gall from which the fatty matter has been extracted by acetate of alumina or similar acting agents, which will precipitate the fat of the gall, the resulting preparation being then passed through a filter, whereby a clear solution will be obtained with which the plate or surface may be covered, so as to secure the safe reception of the emulsion for photographic or other use. Instead of ox gall, any similarly acting substance or material may be used.

The plates or sheets prepared as above may be used with great advantage in reproducing photographs from nature in lines or stipples for calico and other printing, as the stipples or lines can be printed first on the material before it is made transparent. Any photographic design or drawing can be put on the transparent surface in the usual way, and by using the film as a negative or positive in photographing from nature or from a drawing, half tones will be reproduced in lines and stipples available for any kind of printing. As these plates or sheets are waterproof, they can also be used as surfaces upon which can be printed or produced all kinds of ornamental and useful work. - Scientific

This is in many respects the most able argument yet published. The author was educated in the observance of Sunday, and was for several years a high ly esteemed minister in the Baptist denomination. The book is a careful review of the arguments in favor of Sunday, and especially of the work of James Gilfillan, of Scotland, which has been widely circulated amon's the clergymen of America. Mr. Brown has thoroughly sifted the popular notions relative to Sunday, with great candor, kindness and ability. We especially commend it to those who, like Mr. Brown, have been taught to revere Sunday as the

LESSON X:-JUSTIFICATION BY FAITH.

BY REV. THOS. R. WILLIAMS, D. D.

For Sabbath-day, June 7.

SCRIPTURE LESSON.—ROMANS 3: 19-31.

19. Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God.

20. Therefore by the deeds of the law, there shall no flesh be justified in his sight; for by the law is the knowledge of 21. But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets:
22. Even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all, and upon all them that believe; for there is no difference.

23. For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God; 24. Being justified freely by his grace, through the re demption that is in Christ Jesus:

25. Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation, through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

26. To declare, Isay, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.

27. Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay, but by the law of faith.

28. Therefore we conclude, that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law. 29. Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also: 80. Seeing it is one God which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.
31. Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

TIME.—Early in the Spring of A. D. 58. PLACE. - Written from Corinth to the Church at Rome, at the close of the three months residence there, mentioned in Acts 20:3, and the "wintering," mentioned in 1 Cor. 16:6.

PRINCIPAL THOUGHT. - The righteousness of Christ, through faith, saves from sin.

GOLDEN TEXT.-"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. 99-Rom. 5: 1.

OUTLINE.

I. All men sinners. v. 19, 20, 23. II. Righteousness through faith in Jesus Christ. v. 21, 22, 24, 26. III. Boasting and self-righteousness excluded.

IV. God's plan of salvation adapted to Jews and Gentiles. v. 29, 30.

QUESTIONS.

I. By whom and to whom was this epistle written? What do verses 9 and 10 say about all being sinners? What law is referred to? What is it to be justified? How is sin made known to men?

II. What does righteousness mean? What were witnesses of God's righteousness? Who was the redemption of sinners? How was God's righteousness made known? Who were to be saved by Christ?

III. What is meant by boasting? Who were inclined to boast? How is boasting excluded? Did the law, or faith in Christ justify?

IV. Were Jews and Gentiles to be saved in the same way How many reasons can you give for this?

V. What is meant by making void the law? How does salvation through Christ establish the law? The law having been established, has any one a right to change or disobey it

INTRODUCTION.

The design of this epistle was to set forthithe great truths of the gospel. But the central theme of the whole discussion is righteousness by faith. This doctrine brought Paul into conflict with Jews and Gentiles. The faith-religion of the Israelites had sadly degenerated until it was but little more than formalism. The Pagans sought righteousness very largely by penances and ceremonial services offered to idols. Paul taught that all men had sinned, and become defiled, and hence were incapable of righteousness. Righteousness was found only in Christ, and available to sinful man only by faith. This leads us to the doctrine of our lesson, justification by faith. But what is justification? It is the act of declaring just. It is not regeneration, but supposes it to have been effected. It is not sanctification, but prerequisite to it. It is not pardon, but is more, and includes pardon. To justify a man is to pronounce him just, and free from the condemnation of the law.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

V. 19. The law saith, it saith to them who are under the law. Reference is here made to the teachings and law of the Old Testament, which was given directly to the Jews. Then it must apply to the Jews, and they must be under the law. and answerable to its claims. That every mouth may be stopped. That they may be so clearly condemned, as to have no defense. All the world may become guilty before God. Not only the Jew but the Gentile as well, will thus find himself guilty before God.

V. 20. By the deeds of the law. Since all of meeting, Fifth-day, June 5, 1884. men have sinned, they are morally unable to so fulfill the spirit of the law as to be justified. And to do the letter of the law without the spirit will be of no avail. The more clearly they see themselves in the light of the law, the more deeply are they condemned. V. 21. The righteousness of God without the law is manifested. God's righteousness is brought to light, in his plan of salvation. It is the righteousness revealed in Christ, "who is our righteousness," and which is communicated to the believer through his faith in Christ's righteousness. It is on the ground of this communicated righteousness that it is possible for man to be justified. The phrase "without the law." does not signify that the law is superseded nor in any sense annulled, but that the sinner's justification must now come from some other source than the law.

V. 22. By faith of Jesus Christ. That is, through faith in Jesus Christ. This faith is vastly more than an ascent of the intellect. It involves such a merging of the heart and will of the believer into the heart and will of Christ, that the sinner may be said to be clothed upon by Christ. There is no difference or distinction between Jew and Gentile in the essence and mode of justification. All are equally under the law, and condemned by

V. 23. All have sinned. This fallen condition of man is universal; the Jew had no advantage over the Gentile, but is equally dependent upon the unmerited grace of God for justification.

V. 24. Being justified freely by his grace. Justification is a free gift, not 'merited by obedience to law. Though it is conditioned by faith. yet faith is no compensation for justification; it is a free gift.

V. 25. Whom God set forth. This faith the ground of justification, is to be exercised exclusively in Christ, whom God set forth; and not in some work or sacrifice and provision which we may devise. God had made the propitiation, and it remains for us to exercise faith in it before it can avail anything for us. Faith is the subjective means by which we appropriate the propitiation and become candidates of justification. To declare his righteousness. God's love was equal to the saving of the whole world, but how could the world ever know it, unless it be revealed in human life? Hence the love of God is manifested in Christ. Christ himself is the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world," with the one condition on the part of the sinner, the condition of implicit faith in Christ as the propitiation.

V. 26. To declare at this time. A manifestation is now made as distinguished from that of forbearance in past time on the part of God. His righteousness. There was no other way to show forth God's righteousness in forgiving sinners, than through the obedience and suffering of Christ, and faith on the part of the sinner in this perfect obedience and in this willing offering of himself for the sins of the world. Of him which believeth. Of him that hath faith. The atonement has been offered, the penalty has been laid, the pardon is ready, and the sinner may be declared iustified if he will believe and accept the gift of God. The one golden link to unite him to God is worth. faith, then he is justified and saved.

V. 27. Where is boasting them? Vain glory. The Jew thought he had whereof he might glory. It is excluded. No man had any ground for self gratulation. All men are equally dependent. By what law? That is, by what arrangement or rule? By the law of faith. The gospel is the law of faith. "It is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth, to the Jew first and also to the Greek."

V. 28. We conclude a man is justified by faith. For fallen humanity there is no other possible ground of justification. But on this con dition all men may be justified and saved, though neous business. V. God's plan of salvation establishes the their sins be as scarlet. The grounds are as broad and deep and ample as the boundless love of God.

V. 29. Is he the God of the Jews only? So the Jews thought. But Paul has shown that justification is from sin, and since all, both Jews and Gentiles have sinned, all are equally dependent up on this one condition of faith, for justification.

V. 30. Seeing it is one God. The Jews be lieve that there was, only one God. Hence all men must be justified on the same principle. or that one God is a respecter of persons.

V. 31. Do we make void the law through faith? The binding force of the law is not effected by faith. It is just because the law with all its condemning power is in full force, that there is a necessity for justification through faith in the obedience and suffering of Christ.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The following resolutions were adopted at a regular session of the Nile Sabbath school held May 17, 1884:

1. In accordance with the Allwise Providence of our Heavenly Father, Miss Anna L. Rocers has been called from this mortal to an immortal life, and in accordance with our respect for her and our sympathy with her bereaved sister and parents, we the Seventh day Baptist Sabbath school of Nile, N. Y., do resolve that in her death we first recognize the hand of God and believe all things to be done wisely and for the good of mankind.

2. That we have lost the personal labors of one who possessed qualifications rarely attained by one of her years. But her influence will be a living monument of good to her memory. 3. That she was an efficient teacher, a faithful searching student with a character above censure, and in every sense a true Christian. 4. That we extend to her lonely sister and be reaved parents our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the loving Saviour in whom our Anna put her whole trust. 5. That the grief is not theirs alone but ours in

6. That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the afflicted family also to the SABBATH RECORDER and Friendship Register with a request for publica-
