All these events and incidents would make permanent impression upon thoughtful minds. would be more or less continually reported, and awaken a more lively expectation of some great crisis near at hand.

Ten or eleven years are now spent with. the parents at Nazareth, and there were no doubt, uncommon manifestations of intellect and character which astonished and puzzled those who knew the boy Jesus. But the history does not speak. The next occurrence to be noted is the boy's remarkable exhibition of his powers in the school of the Rabbis at Jerusalem. The circle of learned teachers and eager pupils listen in amazement to the youth who at his first entrance into school propounds such far-reaching questions, and displays such wonderful sa gacity in his answers. That school-scene was remembered by those present. Their thoughts followed the boy as his parents came and called him to return with them to. Nazareth. After school, Rabbis as well as pupils talked over the matter, told it to othe ers whom they met; and many of them, it may be, recalled the scene twenty years later, when the young Nazarene was confounding some of them by his unparalelled wisdom. Here, then, another important class in the community was brought to thinking of the person to whom all eyes were eventually to be turned.

Years, almost a score, go by, and in some minds expectation has died out, in others it has been kept fitfully aglow, but these wonderful incidents and manifestations have not been forgotten. When now at length the stories of the wonders connected with the birth and childhood of Jesus had reached into many places, and helped to excite in that he had come to cry the approach of the Messiah. Then, it may be, some of the hearers of John the Baptist began to recall and reflect upon what they had seen or heard Presently the Messiah comes forward and) at introduced to the people by John, and after a little they learn that this is the very one, about whose infancy, childhood and youth they had heard or known such extraordinary things. Now they put together in their minds all these occurences and compare them with the character and actions of the Jesus who is living and working before them, and be gin to see something of the connection of the parts with the whole. And so it came to pass that the first startling announcement of the angel to Joseph, the Magnificat of Mary, the Benedictus of Zacharias, "the charming story of the shepherds of Bethle hem, the profoundly significant visit of the Magi, the astonishing display of childhoed wisdom in the temple, as well as the consummate work of the forerunner-each of these events had, here a little and there a little, something to do in preparing for Jesus a place with the people among whom his ministry was to be exercised.—Cor. of the Watchman (Boston.) built or

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel o every creature."

THERE are 662 women societies in the South co-operating with the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, and which raised nearly $17,000 last year.

For all church purposes and for benevolent objects, the church at North Loup, Neb., raised last year about $1,000. They are struggling for self-support, and in the struggle have a new meeting-house to pay for.

NATIVE Baptist preachers have made several trips from Kuthada, Burma, into the jungle, and brought back glowing accounts of their reception. People came and begged for books, called the preachers into their homes, and listened intently to the gospel, and even thanked them for coming.

'A Major Penn has held seven meetings in Texas during the Summer and Fall, using a tent for preaching. 1,021 have professed faith in Christ, and "Christians have been reclaimed from following the world, or keeping their relis ion in their trunks where their church letters were deposited."

THE Missionary Board of the Southern Baptist Convention has received more monev. notwithstanding hard times, during the first half of the Conventional year, than ever before in the history of the Board. Among several recent appointments is that of Miss Tupper, the accomplished daughter of the Corresponding Secretary, as missionary to Mexico.

D. E. MAXSON, missionary pastor at Hornellsville, N. Y., writes concerning the work of the last quarter: I have preached 19 sermons, attended regular weekly prayer-meetings and Sabbath-school, and visited most of than among the educated classes, although the families. So charming and instructive a volume, it need but be glanced at to secure a careful reading.—Baptist Weekly.

Miss Fielde, the well-known and muchbeloved missionary of Swatow, China, has ly been organized in Germany, as we learn given us in this volume a very valuable work. Her ten years in China, close obserand figures from Bro. Shaw, and not allow discourage the brethren.

The little Church at DeWitt, Ark., is holding on in its Christian integrity. It was about thirteen months between my first and second visits. In that time some marked changes occurred. At present there are more houses dotting that Grand Prairie, more improvements about the former homes and land is held at a price perceptibly advanced. An inexhaustible supply of good water has been discovered at the depth of symcthing more than 100 feet in a strata of coarse gravel. This is reached by iron tub-windmill and an abundance of water is drawn for any number of horses and cattle that one man is likely to own. Also some experi ments had been tried so that many were securing seed wheat determining to raise more bread stuff instead of so much cotton. All these things are inducing immigration. As and worked the health of the country will improve both for man and beast.

The moral and religious condition of the people is not stereotyped. There is room for improvement, and well directed effort does improve it. It is good missionary ground. I am glad we have a church there even though its members are few and so scattered as to render regular services each week very difficult. They are true brethren and sisters. They should be encouraged and their influence will become more and more marked. Something over eight weeks were consumed in this Southern Missouri and Arkansas trip.

A few days at home, and the South-Western Yearly Meeting, held this year at Long Branch, Neb., claimed attention. It was encouraging to note the progress under the pastorate of Bro. D. K. Davis. The parsonage was improved and also the meeting house. The latter had received a new set of shingles, while the inside had received attention in the way of carpeting the pulpit platform, papering the walls, cleansing the ceiling overhead and painting the seats and vation of the customs, manners, and habits other woodwork. It also became evident tral Associational field, I would withdraw that our denominational work was receiving more attention. There were $10 collected for missions, the same amount for the Tract Society, and over $6 to aid in the building of the Texarkana meeting house. This I think is more than double the sum ever collected on such an occasion at Long Branch at any previous time. This is as it should be. With the increased and increasing work upon our hands there is every reason that the matter of giving shall be more carefully attended to. Encouraged by the presence of brethren G. J. Crondall and J. J. White the services were interesting and profitable. While at home after this Long Branch trip, Bro. J. J. Nichols, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., with his daughter visited us. This daughter having been converted last Winter during the meetings held at their place, on Sabbath, November 1st, it was my privilege was written in the new meeting house of the to baptize her. Immediately thereafter we assembled for regular Sabbath service, and she was received as a member of the Nortonville church. Bro. Nichols also presented his letter from DeRuyter, and was received. And Sister Nichols, though not present and had never been a member of a Seventh-day Baptist church was cordially received. Thus this family living a hundred miles away, and without Sabbath privileges for nearly twenty years has become more fully identified with us. and the oldest child has set an example for her younger brothers and sisters. November 6th, when I started out on the Central Branch railway, I did not expect to return by the same route. But stopping at Clifton and Osborne on the way to Rooks county I saw that the interests at these places should receive more attention. I am now on my way back preaching each night about five miles from Osborne. On the way out, I stoppod at Waterville to visit cousin Sarah Shriner, wife of Wm. H. Shriner, a daughsent the Sabbath broadly and fully while the ter of Elder Samuel Davison deceased, she was formerly a member with us at Pardee. After moving west she began preaching among the Adventists. She was very low at the time of my visit with an abscess of the liver. Yet I was hopeful to see her again on my return; but she closed her life on Sixth-day, Nov. 14th, and was buried the next day, Sabbath, Nov. 19th, aged about 54 years. She was regarded as a good preacher, was much esteemed and will be greatly missed by her husband and friends. I found the two Sabbath families at Motor faithful to the cause. Bro. R. H. Woods met me at Bull City, thirty-five miles from home with a missionary load of wheat. Owing to the exceedingly low price of that commodity only $10 were realized for the at Motor but no especial interest was developed. This visit was by an invitation of Dr. Gray, an Adventist. and a prominent citizen of the town. Suffice it now to say with reference to these meetings near Osborne, that the interest is such that I am . staying longer than was at first intended. Thus is there encouragement mingled with the discouragements. May the Lord grant to us all wisdom, strength, and success in this great work.

DERUYTER, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1884. On the 1st of January, 1885, my engagement with the Seventh-day Baptist Church in Otselic will close, and I shall hope to fill my appointments for two sermons each two weeks in the church and one at an and better food, and with the land drained out-station, making, in four months, eighteen sermons on the field, and one funeral sermon, and nine outside. There is an increase of religious interest upon this field. At my last appointment, two weeks ago, there were two new witnesses for Jesus, two clear cases of conversions, one a young wife and mother, the other a promising girl of twelve years.

> During the past six weeks there have arisen features of new interest in Lincklaen, four adult persons having come to the front in declaration for Jesus, three of whom have signified a desire to honor Christin Christian baptism. Both of these churches are peculiarly situated, and need the regular ministry of the word of life. I have tried to meet this need in part, as I could, for several years, as you know; and although the remuneration for these services has been small, it has been all these churches have been able to do. While the golden fruitage gathered, under the blessing of God, on both these fields, has been very cheering to me and both these churches, should be glad to be relieved of this work, by an arrangement that would better meet their necessity, and serve their interest. Indeed, I have thought since our efficient missionary, L. C. Bogers, had come to the Cenfrom this work; but as I study his plan of work, that of spending several weeks, at a time, with the weak churches respectively, (of which we have so many upon this field.) I see that he could not be with these churches oftener than twice a year. That the plan is wise, and, under the circumstances, the best that could be devised, and working great good to the churches reached, and will to these in their turn, I believe. How they are to be tided over the long interim, is the question that troubles me in making my decision in the matter of duty in reference to these churches, knowing as well as I do the peculiar trials of both of them. May the Great Head of the Church, who, by his preserving mercy, has hitherto kept, and, by his hand, guided me, keep and lead me still, that the balance of my ebbing life may serve his glory and the interests of humanity.

A MISSION TREASURY THAT NEEDS RE-PLENISHING. - The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church disburged $775,-724 16 during the year ending Oct. 31, 1884. The receipts amounted to $731,125 86 and the treasury was in debt $87,635 20, against $43,036 90 at the close of the preceding year, Oct. 31, 1883. But outstanding drafts of the secretaries for foreign work amounting to $58,770, made a total indebtedness Nov. 1, 1884, of $146,405 20. This was an increase in liabilities of $58,206 30.

THE Baptists of Oregon report 15 mission aries employed the past year, 6 churches built or completed of an aggregate value of over $20,000, and 4 others in process of erection, and more laborers needed. The State Convention raises one-third of the money appropriated by the Home Mission Society. The Bible-schools have aided in the suppor of a colporteur missionary commissioned by the Publication Society. 'The Woman's For eign Mission Society has assumed the suppert of a woman missionary to Swatow, Chi ns. Our home mission fields make a grave mistake, we believe, if they do not identify themselves with foreign work.

THE Society of Friends report a total membership in this country of about 75,000, and in Great Britain and Ireland about 17,000. They carry on considerable mission work. Among the various Indian tribes they have twenty-five Friends engaged in teaching, and in the foreign field are doing a noble service. They are sustaining thirteen missionaries in Madagascar, five in India, and a medical mis-

The broadest possible general basis of a Christian conception of God and man, and the great truths which the best religious systems of the East already possess, will be the foundation upon which they intend to build. The Brahmo Somay, the Indian reform society, hail this new religious movement with delight; and a number of scholars, such as Max Muller, have expressed their sympathy for the undertaking. This will no doubt be the general feeling of all who hold the views of "liberal Christianity." At the recent meeting held in Weimer, Thuringia, the headquarters of their new mission organization, about 150 members were present, among them 14 university professors, 92 pastors, and a number of teachers and students, Branch societies have been organized in Germany and Switz erland, lectures are being delivered, and funds are being collected to endow a profess orship on missions. The missionary work is not to be done, for the present at least through missionaries, but by means of books that treat of the various phases and forms of religion, and by discussions relating to the problems of comparative religion. Concern ing this movement we think two things at least may be said: first, it witnesses to the importance of foreign mission work and to a growing appreciation of this, importance; sist in the dedication of that house, and presecondly, it will call the attention of Foreign Mission Boards, and missionaries to the necessity of following practical methods, and seeking practical results, and will itself be successful in proportion to its fidelity to the spirit and methods of the New Testament and the Founder of Ohristianity "PAGODA SHADOWS AGAIN:

BEPORT OF S. R. WHEELER, MISSIONARY. For the Quarter ending December 1, 1884.

Dear brethren in Christ,---My last report Providence Seventh-day Baptist church in Texas county, Mo. This report is written in a private House in Osborne county, Kan. My last service in Texas county was on first-day, September 7th. The situation thereabouts you understand from the communications of Brethren Rutledge and Helm. I can add nothing more of especial interest. The work there should be pushed forward. I believe it missionary ground which will yield fruit as it is cultivated. You are also informed concerning the condition of things in Texarkana, Ark. Bro. Shaw's communications and former ones from myself are to the point. Unless things have materially changed since my visit, some one should by all means be on the ground to aspeople are so much aroused by the fact of a Seventh-day Baptist meeting house being made so prominent in their midst. In reference to assisting in the erection of that house I cannot but counsel liberality. Think of three brethren depending upon the daily work of their own hands to support their families and then taking time to erect such a house, finishing it in becoming order and By an arrangement with the publisher of taste with no moneyed compensation therefor.

FROM D. K. DAVIS.

HUMBOLDT, Neb., Dec. 10, 1884. I herewith enclose my report for the last quarter. I should be glad to be able to report greater progress in the work of the Master, and hope to do so at some future time. Matters are in about the same condition as at the time of my last report. The South-Western Yearly Meeting held a session with us, which was an occasion of deep interest. The congregations were large, and the sermons very instructive. We were much strengthened by the presence of our dear brethren and sisters from the other churches.

At Long Branch all the appointments heretofore mentioned are maintained. The Sixth-day evening prayer-meeting has had a smaller attendance during the Summer than last year; but for the last two or three weeks the attendance has been better, and the interest somewhat increased. The young people's prayer-meeting is very well sustained, and a commendable zeal is manifest upon the part of the young people.

The appointments at Round Grove and Pleasant Hill are well attended. I received a letter from the brethren at Harvard a few weeks ago, asking me to make them another visit, which I hope to be able to do soon. A new interest upon the question of the Sabbath has sprung up among them. trust that the brethren of the Board will continue to pray for the interest of this field. As I consider the demand for Ohristian labor, I am led to exclaim, "The harvest is great, but the laborers are few."

I remain yours in the bonds of the gospel. -Bro. Davis reports 13 weeks of labor at Long Branch, Harvard, Round Grove, and Pleasant Hill, the last two being preaching England and London Yearly Meeting, as a business matter, nor by way of adver for the Board to get a full statement of facts 1 visited Plainville, a new but thrifty town 30, and 40; 15 other meetings; and 12 visits.

NOBTH OF THE ABCTIC CIRCLE.

Sometime last summer, a series of articles were published in an Illinois paper on the Sabbath question-Brother G. M. Cottrell defending the doctrine of the Bible Sabbath in answer to various questions &c. by other correspondents. We give below the query concerning the possibility of keeping the Sabbath north of the Arctic Circle, and Bro. Cottrell's answer. It does look as though when a man goes to the North Pole for an argument against keeping the Sabbath, he were trying to quiet conscience about something nearer home.

leads me to ask Elder Cottrell how the Greely colony could have kept the Fourth Commandment (as interpreted by the Seventh-day Baptists and Adventists) during their sojourn at Fort Conger? There the sun sets about the middle of October and rises the next February. How could it be obeyed at any point within the Arctic Circle? Then is it true that there are places where men can and do live, and yet where it is not possible for them to obey one of the Lord's W. H. WILMOT. commandments?

In your Tuesday's paper, Dr. W. H. Wil mot wishes to know how a Sabbatarian could keep the fourth commandment (or the seventh day of the week) at Fort Conger, the northernmost point reached by the Greely exploration party, where the night is four months in duration. I submit a variety of replies, which I think will conclusively show, if not separately, yet collect commandment even there. If some of these answers seem more humorous than serious, it is because the query itself seems to be of that nature.

1st. The Sabbatarian could observe when his conscientious Sunday companions Sabbatized, and he could do the same twentyfour hours earlier, or six times twenty-four later. In other words, it would be just as easy to find Saturday, as it would Sunday, or any other day of the week or month. 2d. He certainly could keep track of the neglected. But the Sabbath returns to call our thoughts away from all temporal things, to rebuke our worldliness, to check our sordid tendencies and to fix our hearts on heaven. On this day we are summoned to give our thoughts to matters of supreme importance and, because free from the interruptions incident to secular time, we have frequent seasons for contemplation, for the study of the heart, and for the exercise of spiritual gifts and graces. Fifty-two entire days, an aggregate of nearly two months, are given us every year for these purposes; ordeal. and these holy periods are so scattered along among the other days of the year that no temporal duties are neglected, nor do they ever become irksome unless men make them so. They come just at the intervals when body and mind most need them, and their sweet and holy influences spread themselves through the whole year. May the Sabbaths of the new year prove even more abundant in blessing, and the old promise to all who rightly observe the day be realized: "Then shalt thou delight The recent communication in The Tran- thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to script on the Sabbath question, with reading ride upon the high places of the earth, and of the accounts of the Greely expedition, feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father."—Baptist Weekly.

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

BY D. E. MAXSON, D. D.

Before the graduating class of the New York Medical College and Hospital for Women, 213 West 54th St., New York, April 1, 1884.

Success bravely won is the unanswerable argument, sufficient vindication of all for mer movements of society. If woman can go even pace with man along the highways ively, that it is possible for one to keep the of professional work, if she can achieve success in medicine, theology, I know of no apriori reason why she may not. By all the difficulties she has to overcome will her success, when achieved, be more real and ac knowledged.

That formidable obstacles have been flung across her path, conjured by the conceit, not to say the cowardice of the opposite sex, and even by the timidity and super-fastidiousness of her own sex, will scarcely be quesdaily revolutions of the earth, by carrying | tioned by one who has carefully watched the movement. When in the not far distant future, woman shall stand in even line with man, his acknowledged peer in all lawful and professional endeavor to lift humanity out of its shrinkage and breakage, it may serve to temper the egotism of the so called "stronger sex " to reflect, that it must always be problematical, whether he would have won mastery as bravely over as formidable obstacles. In the address I have for you to day, ladies of the graduating class, I shall not so much emphasize the differentia which may distinguish your professional work, because you are women, in practice of the healing art, as endeavor to point out some of the conditions of successful medical practice, be it by one acter of the institution in which it has been done, and by the solid-fibered graduates already out from the same preparatory

I speak of your college preparation as the first stage of study for medical practice intentionally assuring you that hard study, unremitting study, lies between you and the goal away yonder. This institution has done well, if during the time it has had you in tutelage, it has taught you how to study medicine, taught you what are the measures of your own powers of thinking, feeling and willing, and how to use them in your professional calling so as to keep on enlarging them, unifying them, compacting them, ir order that out from your well aallanced and earnestly devoted womanhood, there may emanate more beneficence of light and heat upon the arid areas of the humanity to which you belong, and to whose amelioration you have devoted your life work. Manhood, womanhood, i. e., human personhood, ranks far above all its environments, appurtenances, and adornings, so that not one jot or tittle of that can afford to be destroyed or compromised for any or all of these. Much as I honor and dearly as I love the profession to which I have been devoting my life, I would throw it off and spurn it on the day in which I should discover that it was detracting the least of the increments that go to make up and keep up my manhood as God gave it me. Let me be a man preaching, or let tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth. Were I in the least sympathy with the morbid sentiment that woman unwomans herself by working along with her brothers on the field of professional endeavor, I would shrink from one word of encouragement, here and now, everywhere and always. Most happy am I to be assured that each one of you brings to this transition hour of your life, just so much of womanhood as you have had opportunity to gather into that life. On from this hour, and from this size and strength of womanhood, I look away to the end of as

There is a wide region in which man feels the influence of external nature and gathers pain or pleasure by the touches of the work upon him. How wide that region is, only the best and the completest men have found

Most beautifully did the pattern man put his inner life into sympathy with the world | like an adder.' around him, and summon his followers to learn of the lillies and the birds; consider the lillies, he said, sit down with the flowers; see how God clothes them; behold the birds, see how God cares for them. Will he not much more care for you? One starry night a great scholar and a kingly man, was out under the stars, and as they glittered above him they told him of the glory of him who made them, he heard the day unto day uttering Grand Worthy Chief is the devil. speech, and night unto night showing knowledge. Then he went in and sat down with himself, he heard the wonderful life clock ticking, ticking, ever ticking within him, he felt the mysterious life-forces surging through him, he felt the trembling of the human up into the divine life, and with ecstatic uttearance he exclaimed, "I will praise the Lord, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made."

That is a sadly neglected life, which feels no thrill of nature within and of nature without up to nature's God above. That is a sadly unscientific science, which stops short of the infinite, intelligent and beneficent first cause. When the marvelous life clock loses time in some benambing paralysis, or gains time in some burning fever, and you go to adjust its unballanced forces, or to help it repair its broken parts, you need not make apology if it comes to you to unsandal your feet, as on hely ground. Better that, far better, than to rush thoughtlessly into the presence of such fearfully and wonder fully made instruments, whose function it is to express the life of an immortal, and to handle with thoughtless negligence what stands in so intimate relation to the interests of both worlds. Be it specifically your function to administer to physical ailment, do it well and faithfully. 7 It is a noble call-

THE INITIATION.

Not into a lodge of Free Masons. If we are rightly instructed we know that is bad enough, but we now speak of the initiation into the rum shop, alodge (not secret) numbering six millions of members in the United States, a lodge that holds its sessions daily and averages fifteen hours each session. Its

Before we speak of the initiatory steps please take a look into the lodge room. McFarland draws the picture thus: "Health in ruin, hope blasted, affections crushed, home a desert; all the seats of parental care, brotherly love, and maternal devotion empty; in its most distant background there should be the vanishing vision of a blessed past, and in the foreground the terrible certainty of an accursed future. The scenes should be peopled with men whose shattered frames are tenanted by tormented souls; with starved, frightened children, upon whose lips no smile could ever play; with women into whose cheeks furrows have been burnt by hot tears wrung by anguish from their aching hearts. It should be illuminated not with the rays of the heavenly sun, but with something like the glare of the infernal fires. And still this horrible picture will fall far short of the truth."

But, not withstanding this scene, there are many well meaning and professedly Christian men who see no danger in the feeders and rather advocate the use of a beverage which is found to be the greatest of all appetizers for rum and gin. We speak of beer. The reason many indirectly advocate its use is obviou⁻, as we have learned in many ways since our last two articles on hopgrowing. One editor whose subscription list is increased somewhat by the space devoted to the hop market, has taken us to task. and in one breath says he would like to make the paper a temperance organ, but it would not receive the proper support, and in the next proceeds to speak eloquently of "pure beer," etc. Another friend urges that "as hops in no way injure the quality of the beer." therefore, the business, as carried on is perfectly legitimate. Another says that if men drank beer the traffic in rum would decrease, This, perhaps too lengthy article, is not penned for the purpose of censure nor debate, but to correct, if possible, an errcneous view taken in regard to the use of beer. Our friends may be sincere but the facts will not bear them out in their oft-repeated statements. The rum seller does not go out into the streets inviting young men to take of his soul destroying beverage. Very few beginners could be induced to burn their throats with the stronger drinks. They must be educated to it by degrees. The vast traffic in alcohol has been chiefly built up by the brewers. Tens of thousands who never think of sipping brandy will drink beer, for it is thought to be mild and comparatively harmless. Every rum seller knows these men are deceived. They know alcohol is in beer and they put in there purposely. They want young men to believe that beer is harmless. but they are particular to make it otherwise. With just enough of alcohol in it to create an appetite for something stronger they know when a man begins its use he is their victim. They have gone about this wicked business systematically and physiologically, and with beer gardens and beer saloons at every corner and even stretching out into the woods for the benefit of nearly every Sunday-school picnic, their work is complete. With beer in every billiard hall, skating-rink, dance-room, with beer in nearly every city grocery and in ten thousand country stores, offered as a premium to their customers, the rum sellers know that for every sixty thousand they kill annually there will be many more that number of new recruits. Statistics will show that the increased use of beer has a corresponding increase in the use of rum. Beer venders begin the work of desolation and rum sellers complete it. We said rum sellers do not go out soliciting customers, but beer sellers do and are very successful. Having captured their bird they hand him over to the rum seller with a hellish smile that is full of meaning. Fathers, mothers, beware of the man who offers you boy beer or tells him it is harmless. 4th. When the sun is less than 18 degrees below the horizon we have twilight. Fort Conger (I have not the exact latitude) is about 15 degrees north of the Arctic Circle, so that in the middle of the day the sun would be only about 15 degrees below their horizon, which would give them twilight, while we here are having daylight, and by the difference between this twilight and the denser darkness of the other twelve hours, they would be able to distinguish between dayand night, and so be able to distinguish between the days of the week and observe the proper day.

5th If the man were conscientious and thought he couldn't find and keep the seventh day at Fort Conger by any of these methods because of months of darkness and months of daylight, he would most properly conclude to stay where he is and not to go north, since it is optional and the Lord himself had placed no one there, and evidently never intended it as a place of abode; and if any think the Creator unjust in making the world in such a way, that there are places where it is difficult to obey, we could refer them to any quantity of such places a great deal nearer home where one cannot obey God's law. One such place is selling liquor behind the bar. We believe the above reply G. M. COTTRELL. will be sufficient.

FIFTY-TWO SABBATHS.

The fifty-two Sabbaths of the year just ended brought with them inestimable religious privileges and blessings; and it seems peculiarly appropriate that we should pause and ask what benefit their observance has brought us. The mechanic or merchant, with a little calculation, can tell just about the worth of a day or of any number of days. We cannot estimate the value of our Sabbaths, however, by any such mode of reckoning. It would be easy to prove that the advantages resulting from the keeping of a day of rest are far beyond the value we attach to any other day of the week, and that the fifty-two days of each year, taken from toil-time, are the most profitable portions of a man's life, considered only on the score of health and general happiness. But we have other and higher interests than those we are wont thus to estimate, and fifty-two times every year, the affairs of the world are suspended, by God's command and by common consent, to remind us of the claims of these higher interests, that we may not utterly forget that we have souls and that we may not wholly lose sight of our relations to eternity.

We are in constant danger of neglecting our hearts. The world, with its cares and vexations, our avocations, with their stern demands on our time and strength, swallow

There are certain common conditions that antecede success in all avocations. Among these may be mentioned: The true conception of the profession as the means of objectizing the personality of the practioneer, rather than as a screen behind which to conceal it. Professional prestige and titular adornings such as you receive to-day at the hands of this Medical College, have their value as introductions to place and opportnnity, and here their value ends. INDIRECT intelligence of revivals comes to us from several different places. This is always a cause for rejoicing and devout thanksgiving. It will be both cheering to all the brotherhood, to read of these revivals in our Home News Department, and also a stimulus to some to use more • diligently the means to such a work in their own Church. Let us encourage one another by a declaration of what the Lord has done for us.

OBITUARY.

Westerly and community were greatly hocked Sunday morning Dec. 28th, on hearing of the sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. ANN ELIZABETH LANGWORTHY, wife of Dea. Nathan H. Langworthy. She had lately returned from a very pleasant and enjoyable visit with her daughter in Malden, Mass. On the next day after her return, she was taken with neuralgia which went to her heart. She suffered intensely for two days and nights, but was relieved and seemed to be improving. On Christmas day she was quite comfortable and bright, took pleasure and interest in the Christmas presents of the family and directed in regard to some she wished to make. So much improved did she appear on Sabbath-day that, excepting a daughter who remained with her, the family attended the morning service and also the Sabbath-school in the afternoon. Sabbath night she was somewhat restless but comfortable. On Sunday morning at about half-past five o'clock, she called the daughter who stayed with her during the night and said she felt that pain again. The daughter while preparing a powder for her to take to relieve the pain heard a breathing and a sound which alarmed her, she rang a bell to arouse and call the family, tried to give her mother a drink and by the time they gathered around the bed she passed away without a struggle.

Her unexpected and sudden death was an overwhelming blow to the dear family and friends, and a sad surprise to our people. Mrs. Langworthy was born in North Stonington, Conn., May 17, 1819, and was at her death in the 66th year of her age. Her parents were Daniel and Susan Carr. Her mother died when she was nine years old, and her father when she was sixteen. After her mother's death she was brought up in the family of her grandfather, Sands Cole. They were First-day people, religious, and in their faith Congregationalists. At the age of fifteen she attended the Friend's School, in Providence, R. I., quite a noted school at that time. Here she developed early that vivacity and strength of mind, and those About 100 young people, it is believed, womanly graces which distinguished her life.

the town, in political, business, educational, social and religious matters, and in her reading kept abreast of the times. Every true reform found in her a friend and advocate. by her boundless hospitable nature and winning grace, she made her home of great resort for friends and acquaintances, and the stranger who entered her door was made so welcome he went away a friend. Her acquaintance was very extensive and her friends many. But the crown of her life was her piety. She was an earnest and devoted Christian. When in full health and strength she was a power for the upbuilding of religon in the church and community. In special efforts she was a very successful worker, having the rare gift of approaching one on the subject of religion in such a way as to interest and win to Jesus. Her earnest appeals and exhortations will not be forgotten, and many will testify to her faithfulness Though her voice is hushed in death, by her ife she yet speaketh.

The funeral services were held at her late residence on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 31st. There was a large attendance of friends and acquaintances from the town and from abroad. Selected passages of Scripture were read, and prayer offered by her pastor. Very appropriate remarks were made upon her life and character by A. E. Main. Two of her favorite hymns were sung, and her mortal remains, beautiful in death, were borne away to their resting place. A husband, a son, five daughters, and an only brother are left in sad bereavement and lonliness. The Church, society, and the community as well as the bereaved family and friends have met a great loss in her death. But what is their loss in comparison to her infinite and eternal gain? May her graces and virtues be exemplified, and her counsels heeded by the living. We can close this sketch with no mole fitting in memoriam than these sweet lines to her memory by her life-long friend, Rev. A. G. Palmer, D. D.

New York. ELMIRA

After a long interval, I have been again permitted to visit the little flock of Sabbath. keepers in this place, preaching, visiting, and breaking bread to them. 'The communion season was especially interesting. There are six members in this church, all receiving the communion but one, that one being out of town. The restoration of one who had fallen away from his steadfastness, was an occasion of joy. Sister A. C. Lumbard. of 262 West Hudson St., has so far recovered from a long illness as to be able to attend the meetings. Sister Hall being ill, and not able to attend the meetings, the elements were taken to her house, and a communion service held there. The regular Sabbath services are held Sabbath afternoon at the house of Sister Rebecca Brockaway in Southport. The Sabbath morning meet. ings are at 105 West Hudson St., at the residence of W. H. Loughhead.

Quite an agitation of the Sabbath question has been going on at Elmira. It was begun by one of the young pastors, preaching against Sunday entertainments and Sunday newspapers. The newspapers were greatly aided in their defence by an article in a Western newspaper from a Catholic priest or bishop, offering a thousand dollars reward to any Protestant who would furnish a single passage of Scripture making the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, to be the Sabbath. This completely silenced the defenders of the Sunday.

The church in this place has just been improved by the addition of a new front, steeple, etc., costing over $600. About two years ago the audience room was remodeled, reseated and carpeted at a cost of over $800. These changes have secured a very pleasant and convenient house of worship. On Christmas Eve our Bible-school held an entertainment, consisting of music, songs, and recitations, followed by distribution of presents by a Santa Claus, that was enjoyed by a full house.

IT is truthfully said that Christianity creates no new moral obligations. There is nothing morally wrong for the Christian, which is not morally wrong for the man who is not a Christian, under the same circumstances. The only difference in this respect is, the Christian recognizes his obligations and cheerfully accepts them, while the man who is not a Christian does neither. It is vain therefore, for any man to point out the way in which Christians should walk, and then plead exemption from that course of conduct a Christian. Not so easily can moral obligavoid the law by its transgression.

OUB SABBATH-SCHOOL HELPS.

Two or three weeks ago we stated that there was some prospect of a quarterly preparation of lesson helps to take the place of the Lesson Leaf. We are glad to announce that satisfactory arrangements have been so far completed that it can now be announced as a certainty. The new preparation is to be known as the Helping Hand to Bible-school Work. It is to be a 24 pp. pamwhilet about the size of the present Outlook, and will contain a careful, suggestive preparation of the International lessons for a quarter, together with some other interesting matter. The editing is done by A. E. Main, of Ashaway, and the Lessons for the first quarter are prepared by Brethren, C. A. Burdick, A. B. Prentice, and T. L. Gardiner.

The price of the Helping Hand is to be 25 cents per copy for one year, or 7 cents a copy for one quarter. Brother T. R. Williams will continue to furnish comments on the text of the current lesson, for the columns of the SABBATH RECORDER; and Wisitor, have arranged to give a fuller treat- sion. ment of the lessons, in that paper, for the little people. Thus we think ample provisions are made for all grades of students among us. The great body of our schools will want the Handy Help, and can afford to have it at the price named. If all our schools will take hold of it we can afford to print it at that price. A careful account will be kept of the cost of the publication. and if there is a profit on it, the amount will be divided between the Tract and the Minionary Societies. At the same time Our Sabbath Visitor will be made more

In Utah and Idaho there are 12 clergymen 14 parishes and missions, 725 communi cants; 952 Bible School scholars; 788 day school scholars, and 5 church buildings. In Washington Territory there are 14 clergy men; 12 churches and stations; 479 communicants; 622 Bible school scholars.

Sixty-three persons in England and America competed for a $125 prize for an essay on the duty of the young men of the church to consecrate themselves to the ministry. The prize has been awarded to Rev. T. S Childs, Washington, D. C.

There are many revivals in progress; there is a manifest anxiety for the salvation of the unconverted, and a growing sense of obligation to carry the gospel to those beyond the reach of the ordinary means of grace.

A few years afterwards she and her husband joined the Pawcatuck Church, of which she was a valuable and greatly beloved member at the time of her death. For a person of her age, one seldom saw a woman more beautiful in form, features, and complexion than was Mrs. Langworthy. No less beautiful was she in life and character. Always cheerful and genial, charming in her manners, she made every one feel at ease and happy in her presence. She was a rare conversationalist. easy, natural, with a vein of humor; of ready expression, she was the life of a company, indeed of both young or old. She was so agreeable and entertaining to all, that the children greatly enjoyed her company.

In her home she was a most thoughtful and devoted wife and mother. The home was to her, woman's highest sphere and realm. In it she was queen, not by imperious rule, but by her virtues, sweet graces, dignified bearing, ennobling influence and beautiful life. To her home she gave the best of herself, of thought, care, affection, and energy. Cheerful, affable, sweet-tempered, deepprincipled and firm, active and industrious, versatile in management, remarkable in executive ability, affectionate and sympathetic, she was the light, life and joy of it, the central sun to attract, and hold all. She was faithful in the religious training of her children. She drew lessons from every day life and made practical application of spiritual truths. A great reader of the Bible, she could use the Word of God with wonderful power. She guarded the sacred precints of the home from the encroachments of evil influences and bad company. Her consistent, warm Christian life was a continual inspiration and counsel to her family.

Mrs. Langworthy was very affectionate in her nature and she manifested no prudish fear in expressing affection and sympathy. The poor found in her a helpful friend and counselor. Among those who feel her loss most deeply are the poor of her native place, and her charity was quiet, unobtrusive, and

QUARTERLY MEETING AT DEBUYTER

The associate meeting of the Churches of DeRuyter and vicinity, which was to have been held at Cuyler Hill, the first Sabbath in the new year, was held at DeRuyter, by request of friends at the former place, several of their families being absent from home. The change though made at a late hour, did not seriously affect the interest of the meet ings. Elder F. O. Burdick and family, and brother Dolphus D. Burdick, from Scott, was the only messengers from a distance. The unfavorable condition of the roads were undoubtedly the cause of non-attendance from other churches.

Besides the Sixth day evening prayermeeting, four preaching services were held sollowed by conference, and developing a tate of deep religious feeling.

The financial embarrassments which have recently come upon the people of DeRuyter and vicinity, through heavy failures, will, it is hoped lead the people to a closer walk with God. A very general and serious inconvenience, and even much suffering, has been occasioned by these failures, the liabilities aggregating not less than $175,000, and the as setts not likely to prove very valuable, except to a few preferred creditors. What a comforting thought in these troublous times, that we may by faith in God, and by well doing, lay up for ourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust corrupt, nor theives break through and steal. The next associate meeting of these churches will he held with the Church in Scott, beginning on the evening after Sixth day, March 6th, 1885, being the first Sab-bath in the month. The pastor, F. O. Bur-L. C. R.

ITHACA.

I have visited the little flock in this place, and find that no meetings have been held since the death of Sister Holt, at whose house the meetings were regularly held until within a few weeks of her death, last Spring. The leader, Brother Anson King, now resides on his farm, seven miles from Ithaca. I visited him at his pleasant home. Himself, wife, and little son, are firm in the truth. Brother King is anxious that I should hold meetings in that vicinity as soon as convenient. In Ithaca, I was hospitably intertained at the residence of Sister Lucy Carpenter, at whose house future meetings may be held. L. C. R.

Sabbath day, Dec. 27th 1884, was a day of pleasure to the Sabbath-school at 2d Hopkinton. It being the last Sabbath in the year it had been thought appropriate to have a "Sabbath-school Christmas Concert" for the mutual benefit of the school and friends interested in its work. At the hour for the regular morning services of the Church a good congregation had gathered, and the pastor delivered a short address from the Saviour's words, "It is not the will of your Father'in heaven that one of these little ones should perish." Matt. 18: 14. After the sermon the Sabbath-school presented an appropriate and thoughtfully prepared programme, consisting of short essays and poems relating to the birth, mission, and reign of Christ, together with recitations, select readings &c., the whole interspersed with well-rendered music.

The school has done a good work during the past year under the care of A. A. Langworthy, as superintendent, and Geo. A. Kenyon, who has acted as assistant superintendent. To these brethren the school unanimously tendered a vote of thanks for

The first session of the Bible-school for 1885 was more than usually interesting on account of the Secretary's annual report, which gave some statistics of the year just closed. There were 52 sessions during the vear, with an average attendence of 122. The least number present any session was 63. Four persons were present every session. The collections have averaged $2 29 each sabbath. The collections have been disposed of as follows; $51 29 to the American Sabbath Tract Society $51 29 to the Seventh-day Baptist Missionary Society and $15 26 reserved for the wants of the school. The Class collections have helped the school to nore funds, than any plan before adopted.

The Greenmanville Sabbath-school held a New Year's entertainment at the Church Wednesday evening whose merit was not below those of former years. The devotional part was conducted by the Superintendent and the Pastor, and the literary exercises, consisting of recitations and readings, were participated in by Eloise Hatch, Ethel Congdon, Charlie Lewis, Bernard Russell Jennie Wykman, Robbie Weston, Anna Wyk man and Anna Greenman. After these was presented original personations as follows:-"Father Time," Bessie Greenman; "Messenger," Charlie Lewis; "Old Year," Mary Saunders; "Spring," Eloise Hatch; "Summer," Alice Perron; "Autumn," Annie Smith "Winter," Hattie Sweet; "New Year," Charlene Stillman. Time, whose white head and flowing beard told the measure of the conturies, held his court, and sent his Messenger after the Old Year to come and render an account. She, timid yet trusting, made her plea and bade Time summon her daughters fair, Spring, Summer, Autumn, and days. They came "one by one," Spring was lowa. WELTON. We have great reason to be thankful to the Master for the blessings he has been pleased to bestow upon us. During the past year we have been blessed spiritually and temporally. Our little church is in good working condition. A good degree of interest is manifest in all the appointments of the church and Sabbath-school. A lively interest is being taken in a musical class conducted by Bro. C. C. Van Horn. Most all of the Society take an active part in Sabbath-school work. The last quarterly review passed off very pleasantly showing that good work had been done. Our young people's prayer meeting is still well attended and is a source of great strength.

We had thought that the morality of the Welton society could not be excelled by any society with which we had ever been connected; but the deception practiced of late upon the pastor and his family has caused us to remember the words of Solomon, "All is vanity." We had noticed that for some time, we had not been taken into the confidence of the people as usual, and were coming to think that the 'brethren of the General Conferance had acted wisely in appointing a Ministerial Bureau. As a change, however, in the monotony it was announced that there would be an opportunity for the display of the musical talent of the place, at the church. Accordingly we repaired thither, hoping to enjoy a musical

The Conference left its blessed influence upon our Church and community and our people have felt its power eversince. Often in our prayer-meetings reference is made to sermons or addresses, or even casual remarks by the delegates, that have started new spiritual life and given increasing joy. We have thus been living in the continued enjoyment and feasting upon the good things of the General Conference all the Fall and Winter. Then too, we have frequent letters from China, to which our people gladly listen, giving account of the medical work and the marvelous interest all classes are taking in the Seventh-day Baptist Mission on account of the healing of their sick and suffering. China is growing nearer to us, and our interest in that far off land continually increasing.

In our pastoral work and in visiting from house to house, almost the first question asked is, "Have you heard lately from your sister," and then we sit down and tell them the strange stories from that distant land, and how God is bringing the hearts of the mothers and children and even the fathers to think of the true God through the blessings that have been brought to their homes in the healing of their bodies.

And so our faith grows stronger and our hearts are made glad on account of God's blessing upon us here at Lost Creek and his smiles upon our work abroad.

There are some who engage in the cultivation and sale of tobacco, who justify their course on the ground of financial gain, admitting at fhe time that it is an evil. If money will justify evil, enough money will justify any evil. Hence, as the evil referred to above resulted in gain to the pastor and his family, (for which they are very thankful) we hope there is pardon for Welton. J. T. D.

> Minesota. NEW AUBURN.

Prehaps the readers of the Recorder will be interested to learn that New Auburn still remains here in Sibley County, upon the shore of the High Island lake. Considerable building has been done since the "out side world" has heard much from us. Our four stores have all been built new with glass fronts, and now compare well with the best buildings of their kind. Two new residences have been put up, and our village has undergone a decided improvement during the past year.

The reorganization of our Bible-school on the 27th of Dec. resulted in the election for Superintendent of J. W. Crosby, Assistant J. M. Richey, Secretary Miss Edith Bailey, Treasurer Burdett Coon, Chorister G. G. Coon.

A commendable interest has been manifested in our Bible-school and sabbath service during the year that is ended, though we feel very keenly the need of some one to lead us. Robert Ray, a young Scotchman, First Day Baptist, came here directly from a London (England) College, in September last, and has been preaching to the Firstday people on Sundays, and to our people on Sabbath, ever since. His labors are generly acceptable, though the brethren begin to feel that it is about time for him to teach us our error, or to receive and practice God's truth.

Will the Brethren, every where, pray for us, that we may have wisdom, consecretion, and zeal to do our whole duty. JAN. 1, 1885.

"THY WILL. NOT MINE."

Into thine outstretched hand We lay it all; Only at thy command Can ill befall; And secret good must hide In seeming ill, Welcomed and loved, because It is thy will.

Thy will that takes the sting From every care; Thy will that joy can bring From our despair; Thy will that turns to gain Our shame and loss, That lets the crown remain, And takes our cross.

Dear Lord, thy gracious will, Once understood, We in thy hands lie still; Make thou us good. No fear, no care have we, No way, no choice; Whate'er thy teaching be, We must rejoice.

Even the rcd is sweet In thy employ; There (an be at thy feet Nothing but joy; And naught but sweetest peace In any smart, For souls whose life is hid In God's great heart, -Baptist Weekly

ONE TALENT OR TEN?

BY FANNIE ROPER FEUDGE.

"The Lord, when he comes, will require as strict an account from those to whom he quires is the full use of what he commitseach; and nothing less will win the blessed plaudit, 'Well done, good and faithful servant.' This is just what our minister said yesterday, and I believe it, every word." So the fairest of lilies.

stress—and newly set forth in the Christian course; poor too, as this world counts riches, an orphan, and wholly dependent on her own efforts for a living, but sunny tempered, on a folded blanket in Carrie's room, with a brave, earnest, and loyal to the Master since bunch of keys to jingle and a basket of emphe had converted her to himself. "What | ty spools to toss about, actually learned first can I do for Jesus ?" she asked herself again and again as she sat busily plying her needle in the bright sunshine that served her for warmth as well as light. "Perhaps there is not much I can do; but I can try; I can watch for opportunities, and I will ask Jesus to show me, day by day, some small work to do for him. I mean to try to find out how many talents he has given me, and to ask him to help me to make the best possimay 'receive his own with usury.' "Let me count up what I have to use for the Master. First and above all, is the sweet hope that I belong to Jesus by adop tion into his family; and this dear hope is a precious trust that must not be 'buried under a bushel,' but must be dispensed to others, by precept and example, every day as long as I live, that as many others as possible may become partakers thereof. I have excellent health, and a bright sunny little room all to myself, with plenty of work-al that I can do-while so many have no work and cannot afford such a cosey little home. So I will try to be more economical, and deny myself that I may help some of these needy ones. I will begin to day by trimming over my last winter's hat, and I shall thus save enough to get those shoes for Eddie and Nannie Black, so that the poor children may start to Sabbath-school at once. Then there are my books. How rich I feel with my nice clear-print Bible, and a smaller one for pocket use, with a whole shelf-full of good and interesting books. But I must not enjoy them alone. Hereafter I will seek opportunities to lend or read them to others who are not so well supplied as I am. I will begin to night with poor Mrs. Brown, who looks so sad and discouraged, and perhaps a good story may help her to forget her troubles, at least for a while. I will try, too, to be more grateful for my dear little class in Sabbath-school, and I will labor and pray more earnestly that I may be able to guide them to Jesus and help them to love and trust him. I will ask the dear Saviour to teach me to do this, and I will watch for opportunities to speak a word about this dear friend. Surely there must be somebody that I can talk to about Jesus and his great love. Oh, that I may never, never forget him." And the young seamstress, with the prayer yet on her lips, began to fold her finished work to take home, thinking as she did so of the long pleasant walk in the bright sunshine; and she thanked God that she was strong and well, "and not blind," she added, "like poor little Susie up stairs."

After that day Susie went nearly every time, and many of the hours of mother's absence Susie spent in Carrie's little room, where she learned not only to keep her person tidy, but also to sing, to knit, and to crochet, to repeat and to understand many hymns and texts, to do other handy little jobs, and above all, she learned to be

It is the work of like the rose with the prodigality of your thus temples of God, casts out impurities, every holy act is inspired by him. A full baptism of the Spirit's power will make the believer " holy and without blame before God in love.

The Holy Spirit intercedes. Rom. 8:26. We know not what to pray for as we ought, except the Spirit help our infirmities. He is in the hearts of Christians to excite holy desires and aspirations, to reveal the sinfulness and necessities of the soul, and to create desires and longings often unutterable. He brings to the supplicant encouraging promises, reveals to him the divine love, teaches him how to pray according to the will of God and fills him in his communion with God with a joy unspeakable and full of glory. There are times when the conscience of a good man is more tender, has a nicer and more discriminating touch than usual. The evil of sin in general, and his own in particular, appears in a more clear and piercing light, and the desire to be lifted out of the thralldom of it into the full light and liberty of the sons of God takes possession of the whole soul. There is a wrestling with God in prayer, kindled by the Holy Spirit, which produces the fruits which the apostle rejoiced to find in the church at Corinth. "What carefulness it wrought in you, what clearing of yourselves; yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what zeal." The Spirit of all grace and supplication is the Holy Spirit, and where it exists in a congregation peace and prosperity reign. Those in whom it dwells may not necessarily be profound thinkers or powerful speakers but they are earnest, large hearted men, and full of divine force. Their whole nature seems surcharged with an energy which they cannot call their own. When they speak their hearers feel that a supernatural force is grappling with them and forcing them to yield or to set up a conscious resistance. They wrestle in prayer with God, like Jacob of old, and obtain the blessing. Hence the apostle Jude inculcates the duty of " praying in the Holy Ghost" to teach that only the prayer inwrought by him can prevail at a throne of grace. Let all who pray in any congregation on the Sabbath, come from the closet to the sanctuary "filled with the Spirit, " ready as soon as the pastor goes to the pulpit to ask God mentally for instant blessing and power; ready to lift up the heart, as some divine truth is spoken for its immediate application by the Spirit to some person whom they may name to God in their petition-ready to intercede for some one who is attentive and almost persuaded to be a Christian, and what blessed fruit would be borne of that service to the praise and glory of God! It would not end without some one being brought to the Lord Jesus Christ and made a trophy of his re deeming love and grace. In view of these facts we may learn that its words and sentences, in its grammatical all of our power as Christians lies in God's construction, in its history, biography, working in us by his Holy Spirit. Our use-didactic and ethical lessons, it has a value fulness in the Master's service and our effifor all. > "Come from your long, long roving, On life's sea so bleak and rough, Come to me tender and loving And I shall be blessed enough."

That had been her love song-always on her lips or in her heart. Children had been born to them. She had reared them almost alone-they were gone! Her hand had led them to the uttermost edge of the morning that has no noon. Then she had comforted him, and sent him out strong and wholehearted while she stayed at home and-cried. What can a woman do but cry?—and trust? Well, she is at rest now. But she could not to fret, but to remember how happy they had been. They? Yes, it is even so. For It was an equal partnership after all!

"She-was-a-good-wife-to-me!" O man! man!-Why not have told her so, when her ears were not dulled by death? Why wait to say these words over a coffin wherein lies a wasted, weary, gray-haired woman, whose eyes have so long held that pathetic story of loss and suffering and patient yearning which so many women's eyes reveal-to those who read. Why not have made the wilderness in her heart blossom your words would have once caused, bejeweling the closed windows of her soul. It is too late.

Carrie's cheery songs; and by and by roses began to bloom in his rounding cheeks, while the happy little one toddled round the room with the little blind girl for a companion. The mother grew interested in making her room more comfortable, and the father, attracted by this changed aspect, learned to love h's home, grew industrious and provident, and the children once more wore whole ble use of all I have, that at his coming he clothes and were able to attend school and church.

Thus day by day Carrie found her work. Her buoyant health and happy temper were talents she could daily invest for Jesus; her small library, by judicious use, became a joy and a power to those about her; her scant leisure was used in reclaiming a profligate husband and restoring happiness to his family, as well as in bringing sunshine into many a dreary hame; while even her tiny chamber was found large enough to share occasionally with sad and weary ones about her, and still afford ample room for the abode of the loving Redeemer in the heart of an earnest, happy Christian.

THE NEED OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

As the Winter season has again returned and the subject of revivals in our churches is discussed, it may be well to direct our thoughts to the relation of the Holy Spirit to such a work. While we speak and preach so much, and rightly so, concerning the love of God the Father, in the gift of his Son to redeem us, and of the great love of Christ in dying for us, how seldom do we speak of the Spirit as seen in applying and affecting the great work of salvation in our hearts in knowledge and sanctification: with the powerful revivals of religion that have been realized in many places there has been a corresponding increase of honor put upon the divine Spirit in human redemption. His person, offices, and operations, have become more frequently the theme of the pulpit, and the spirit of inquiry thus awakened can but bear good fruit.

The Holy Spirit teaches. John 14: 26. It is not enough that we have the Bible and can read it in our homes, for the "letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." As a mere book it is the same to all readers. In a length of 11.81 inches the steel wire could be twisted four times before it broke, while the iron wire stood 18 revolutions. For the tensile tests, the length of specimen was 5.96 inches. The galvanized steel wire is used for wrapping ocean telegraph cables, while the iron wire is used for surface telegraph lines. The steel used is generally made by the Bessemer process, while the iron was puddled from a mixture of Westphalian mill pig, Siegen charcoal pig, and pig from the Georg Marie Hutte at Osnabruck. The quality of the galvanizing is tested either by dissolving the coal in hydrochloric acid or by dipping the specimen a number of times for a given time copper. The wire must not show any signs of a deposit of copper. For the German telegraph service, the sulphate sois a tensile strength of 53 tons per square inch, an elongation of 1.5 per cent., and a bending test of wrapping the wire twice around a piece of wire having the same diameter and straightening it out without breaking it.—Scientific American.

OYSTERS.—The oyster industry is rapidly passing from the hands of the fishermen into those of oyster culturists. The oyster, being sedentary, except for a few days in the earliest stages of its existence, is easily exterminated in any given locality, since, although it may not be possible for the fishermen to rake up from the bottom every individual, wholesale methods of capture ⁸⁰⁰ⁿ result in covering up or otherwise de-stroying the oyster banks or reefs, as the communities of oysters are technically termed. The main difference between the oyster industry of America and that of Europe lies n the fact that in Europe the native beds have long since been practically destroyed, perhaps not more than 6 or 7 per cent of the oysters of Europe passing from the native beds directly into the hands of the consumer. It is probable that from 60 to 75 per cent are reared from the seed in artificial parks, the remainder having been laid down for a time to increase in size and flavor in the shoal waters along the coasts.

In the United States, on the other hand, from 30 to 40 per cent of all the oysters consumed are carried from the native beds directly to market. The oyster fishery is everywhere carried on in the most reckless manner, and in all directions oyster grounds are becoming deteriorated, and in some cases have been entirely destroyed. It remains to be seen whether the governments of the States will regulate the oyster fisheries before it is too late, or will permit the destruction of these vast reservoirs of food. At present the oyster is one of the cheapest articles of diet in the United States, while in England, as has been well said, an oyster ¹⁸ usually worth as much as, or more, than new laid egg. It can hardly be expected that the price of American oysters will always remain so low as at present: but, taking into consideration the great wealth of the natural beds along the entire Atlantic coast, it seems probable that a moderate amount of protection will keep the price ^{or} seed oysters far below the present European rates, and that the immense stretches of submerged land along our coasts especially suited for oyster planting may be utilized and may be made to produce an abundant harvest at a much less cost than that which ac-

LESSON IV.-PAUL'S JOURNEY TO JERU SALEM.

BY REV. T. R. WILLIAMS, D. D.

For Sabbath-day, January 24.

SCRIPTURE LESSON.—Acts 21: 1-14.

1. And it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara : 2. And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we

2. And minding a snip saming over unto Thencus, we went aboard, and set forth.
3. Now when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.
4. And finding diseiples, we tarried there seven days: who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Lernsalem

Jerusalem.

5. And when we had accomplished those days, we departed, and went our way: and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city : and we kneeled down on the shore and praved.

6. And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned home again. 7. And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day. 8. And the next day we that were of Paul's company de-parted, and came untoCesarea; and we entered into the house of Philip the evangelist, which was one of the seven; and abode with him. 9. And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy. 10. And as we tarried there many days, there came down

10. And as we carried incre many days, there came down from Judea a certain prophet, named Agabus. 11. And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's gir-dle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

man that owneth this girdle, and shall deriver non into the hands of the Gentiles.
12. And when we heard these things, both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.
13. Then Paul answered, What mean ye to weep, and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.
14. And when he would not be persued dw cessed sevent. 14. And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, say-ing, The will of the Lord be done.

TIME.-April, 58 A. D. PAUL, aged 56, near the close of his third journey.

PRINCIPAL THOUGHT. - Incidents of Paul's journey.

and this implies that they knew that there was a Christian church there. Paul was not disposed to leave the city without seeing them. These disciples, at least some of them, with a prophetic spirit, seemed to be impressed that some unusual trials awaited Paul at Jerusalem, and hence they end avored to dissuade him. V. 5. They ail brought us on our way.

This was a manifestation of great kindness. Kneeled down on the shore and prayed. All this kindness and mutual regard was cemented in Christian fellowship. "We' indicates that Paul was joined by others in prayer, perhaps by many others.

V. 6. Took ship. That is, took another vessel and sailed to Ptolemais, about 30 miles to the south of Tyre. This was the end of the voyage. V. 7. And saluted the brethren. Here, as all along the coast, we find a church organized, which shows something of the energy with which the miss on had been car ied on.

V. 8. And the next day . . . came unto Cesarea. This journey by land led them round Mount Carmel, along the coast, for thirty or forty miles. This was the chief Roman city of Palestine, on the Mediterranean, forty seven miles north west of Jerusalem. It was the official residence of Festus and Felix, governors of Judea, the plcc; where Paul was afterward imprisoned two years. We entered into the house of Philip the evangelist. Called evangelist to distinguish him from the apostle.

V. 9. And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy. Prophesy, as used here, is supposed to mean the preaching of the gospel. In short, they participated in evangelistic work with their father.

V. 10. We tarried there many days. He was now in easy reach of Jerusalem, and could measure his time, hence remained longer (as the original implies) than he had anticipated. There came down from Judea a certain prophet, Agabus. This is supposed to be the same his own hands and feet. The girdle was usually made of leather or of linen, and frequently highly ornamental; was of considerable length, and used to draw together the flowing robes of the oriental dress about the waist. The prophet used it in a symbolic act, for the purpose of signifying what should befall Paul at Jerusalem.

 ∇ . 12. We besought him not to $\mathbf{g} \cdot \mathbf{u}\mathbf{p}$ to Jerusalem. All these forebodings and the prophecy, seemed to Paul's companions and the brethren, to indicate that he should not go to Jerusalem. But to Paul's mind the indications were en tirely different. He could not understand them. V. 13. What mean ye to weep, and to break mine heart? No human heart was

She was as well as usual the day and night preceding her death, having sat up | pendent; with a sick neighbor, done out her washing, prepared supper and sat down with the family to eat, but being taken suddenly ill with dizziness and nausea, she was carried to her bed and a physician was called, but the physician could do her no good, and she gently, peacefully p ssed away to meet her Saviour whom she had so long and faithfully served. She only lived two hours and a half. She leaves a husband, one son, a young man, and an adopted laughter, and a large number of relatives to mourn for her, but their loss is truly her gain. "Though dead she yet s beaks." "She rests from her labors and her works do follow her." It was well said of Othello Potter as Executors of Elisha Potter, and to her that "she has done what she could." "Be ye all other creditors of said Erastus A. Green, heirs

Diphtheretic sore throat followed with Typhoid symptoms, soon did its fatal work. Conscious until the last, she expressed a desire to live, but a perfect willingness to go if that was to be. Safe in Jesus, death had no terrors for her. Loved by everyone, she left a kind good bye to schoolmates and friends, bidding all to meet her in heaven. H. E. B.
