INAUGURATION OF THE PRESIDENT.
General Zachary Taylor, the twelfth President of the United States, was inaugurated on Monday, March 5th.

Elected by the American people to the highest office known to our laws, I appear here to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution, and, in compliance with a time-honored custom, to address those who are now assembled.

The confidence and respect shown by my countrymen, in calling me to be the Chief Magistrate of a Republic, holding a high rank among the nations of the earth, have inspired me with feelings of the most profound gratitude...

Happily, however, in the performance of my new duties, I shall not be without able co-operation. The Legislative and Judicial branches of the Government present prominent examples of distinguished civil attainments, and matured experience...

To command the army and navy of the United States—with the advice and consent of the Senate to make treaties and to appoint ambassadors and other officers—to give to Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend such measures as he shall judge to be necessary, and to take care that the laws shall be faithfully executed...

ice, care shall be taken to ensure the highest condition of efficiency, and in furtherance of that object the military and naval schools, sustained by the liberality of Congress, shall receive the special attention of the Executive.

As American freemen, we can not but sympathize with all efforts to extend the blessings of civil and political liberty; but at the same time we are warned by the admonitions of history and the voice of our own beloved Washington...

It is to be hoped that no international question can now arise which a Government confident in its own strength, and resolved to protect its own just rights, may not settle by wise negotiation, and it eminently becomes a Government like our own, founded on the morality and intelligence of its citizens...

In the conduct of our Foreign relations, I shall conform to these views, as I believe them essential to the best interests and the true honor of the country.

The appointing power vested in the President imposes delicate and onerous duties. So far as it is possible to be informed, I shall make honesty, capacity, any fidelity indispensable requisites to the disposal of office, and absence of either of these qualities shall be deemed sufficient cause for removal.

In any action calculated to promote an object so near the heart of one who truly loves his country, I will zealously unite with the coördinating branches of the Government.

In conclusion, I congratulate you, fellow-citizens, upon the high state of prosperity to which the goodness of Divine Providence has conducted our common country.

Let us invoke a continuance of the same protecting care which has led us from small beginnings to the eminence we this day occupy; and let us seek to deserve that, by prudence and moderation in our councils, by well-directed attempts to assuage the bitterness which too often marks differences in opinion...

Oath of Office.
'I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States.'

The President returned into the Capitol amid prolonged and vociferous cheering.

THE NEW CABINET.
The new Cabinet has not been positively announced, but it will probably stand as follows:

A WOMAN SHOT BY HER HUSBAND.—A fatal tragedy was enacted at No. 46 Lexington Avenue, N. Y., one day last week, in which Mr. Thomas A. Walker shot his wife, Martha Eliza Walker, with a six-barrel revolving pistol.

"Will not the enlightened and liberal furnish their clergymen with a copy, as an indispensable volume in their libraries?"—Rev. T. H. Gallaudet.

Extract from a Lecture addressed to a Teacher's Institute,
by William Russel, Principal of the Merrimack [N. H.]
School for Teachers, and formerly Editor of the American Journal of Education:

"The editor of Dr. Webster's Dictionary, revised by Professor Goodrich, I would earnestly recommend to the attention of all teachers who are desirous of becoming fully qualified to give instruction in the English Language. The opious information which that work embodies, on all topics connected with Etymology—the extreme exactness, as well as the number, extent, and fullness of the definitions which it furnishes to every important word, render it a mine of philological wealth to instructors. The volume is, in fact, the teacher's encyclopedia, as well as lexicon; for daily reference. Could a copy of it be procured, as the permanent property of every district school, the effect, as regards the improvement of instruction, would be deeply and extensively felt, in the increased skill of the teacher, and the higher attainments of his pupils, in the most important part of education—the acquisition of an adequate knowledge and proper use of our own language!"

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS, &c.

From the President of the United States.
To Mr. E. Walker.—Dear Sir:—I have found your Statesman's Manual a valuable work, and exceedingly useful and convenient.
Yours, J. K. POLK.

From the Hon. Henry Clay.
My Dear Sir:—Your Statesman's Manual is a very valuable work for reference.
State of New York:
Secretary of Office,
Department of Common Schools, Albany, Sept. 18, 1846.

I have examined the "Statesman's Manual," in two volumes octavo, compiled by Edwin Williams, and am of opinion that it is a proper work for school districts, libraries, and deserving of a place in those institutions, designed for the diffusion of useful knowledge.
Signed, J. S. RANDALL,
Dep. State Supt. Com. Schools.

From the Journal of Commerce.
This is one of the most important books published in the United States for a long time.

From the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer.
This is the most important contribution to American political history ever published.

From the Democratic Review.
The whole forms a most complete library in itself, of all that concerns the politics of the country. No individual should be without these two volumes at hand for prompt reference. How many hours of the discussion and endless debates might be spared, were these books at hand for appeal. We shall have frequent occasion to refer to them."

From the N. Y. Express of August 31, 1846.
This is emphatically a national work, and as such eminently deserving of a national support."

From the Commercial Advertiser.
Such a work is invaluable, and is offered at a comparatively low price, in expectation of a large sale."

From the Luzern Democrat.
The Statesman's Manual is a very valuable work, comprising a complete condensed political history of our country from the formation of our government until the present time."

From the Washington, Ohio.
It is but scanty praise to say, that no work of equal value to the American Statesman, Politician, Journalist, Historian, &c., &c., has ever before appeared."

From the Harrisburg (Pa.) Argus, August 26, 1846.
No politician, no man who desires to understand the history of the several administrations of the General Government, should be without a copy of it. As a book of reference, it is invaluable."
